British Columbia Entitled to Same Deal as Manitoba

Premier King Presented Cheque for $4,584,219 as Compensation to Prairie Province—No Cash Grant Allowed for Millions Taken in Revenues From Our Railway Lands

Lands Subsidy Misnomer; Was in Lieu of Customs

THE return to Manitoba of her natural resources and the presentation by Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, during his election visit to Winnipeg Tuesday of a cheque for $4,584,219 as compensation for revenues collected by the Dominion up to 1908, brings to the attention of the people of British Columbia the fact that with the return of the Railway Lands and Peace River Block to this province Premier King did not allow "a five cent piece"

While there is no feeling of envy evidenced by public men here over the return to Manitoba of her heritage, or upon the province being compensated, the feeling that British Columbia did not receive "a nickel more than the Dominion could give" is being freely expressed.

British Columbia is entitled to compensation for her railway lands and less lands from which the Dominion received, as a low estimate, $12,500,000 in revenues during the period that they were withheld from the province.

FIVE-YEAR CENSUS

A searching of the records demonstrates that British Columbia should have been allowed compensation if Manitoba was to be allowed a cash grant for her resources.

Under the arrangements with Manitoba and the other provinces on the prairies the per capita subsidy grant is based on a census taken every five years, with, in the case of Alberta and Saskatchewan, an adjustment arranged on an estimate made of population every two and one-half years. British Columbia's subsidy is fixed on a ten-year period.

CONTRAST IS MADE PLAIN

D. B. Plunkett Traces Conservative Attitude Towards Labor as Instanced by Acts

WARD TWO RALLY CHEERS SPEAKER

Contrasting deliberate evasion of the unemployment issue on the part of the Mackenzie King administration, with the definite action taken by former Conservative regimes for the amelioration of conditions affecting workers throughout the country, D. B. Plunkett addressed repeated cheers from a well attended meeting at the Birch Ward School last evening. Thomas Hastings, president, Ward Conservative M.P.P., and F. C. Elliott spoke in support of Mr. Plunkett's return to the Federal Parliament when his service has already been warmly commended.

ESTABLISHED BENEFITS

The Conservative party in Canada had been the first to make labor unions legal, according to the unions the rights and privileges they now enjoy under the law, said Mr. Plunkett.

The granting of Dominion aid to the provinces to foster a plan of technical education throughout the country had first been brought in by the Conservative party, he continued. Boys who were good with tools had as much right to an education fitting and developing those qualities as others whose strength lay in books, he observed. The need of the country was trained men, to do its physical work, and the great benefits of the technical grants had been cut off by the King administration, said the speaker.

ASSIST AGRICULTURE

In assistance to agriculture a Conservative Premier had voted $1,000,000 as a direct and positive benefit toward the development of the country's income from the soil, and the assistance of farmers in their problems.

It was a Conservative administration that established a fund of $35,000,000 to furnish moderately-priced houses to workers, and this fact was little known and little talked about throughout the country, continued Mr. Plunkett.

British Hope In Boat Race Shows Speed

GRAVENHURST, Ont., July 16.—The speedboat Estelle IV, driven by Marion B. Carstairs, British hope in the international races for the Harmsworth Trophy at Detroit next month, churned Lake Muskoka today at ninety miles an hour.

Miss Carstairs' tests were handicapped by choppy water and the presence of many pleasure craft on the lake, carrying spectators.

The Estelle IV had her throttle wide open for about three-quarters of a mile. Driven by two 900-horsepower engines, the craft kicked up a great cloud of spray, and Miss Carstairs appeared to have all she could do to retain her hold on the wheel as the rudder was buffeted by the waves. The mechanic, Joe Harris, sat low in the cockpit, manipulating the throttle.

Bill to Admit Women to House Of Lords Fails

LONDON, July 16.—A bill to admit women peeresses in their own right to membership in the House of Lords was defeated today by the narrow margin of four votes, 53 to 49.

Lord Astor, who has been the women's champion for many years in their fight for recognition in the Upper House, again introduced today's bill.

Conservative peers opposing the bill said that the question of the admittance of women should be left until the reform of the whole House was considered, a movement which has been under consideration for some time.

FLATLY DENIES ANY COLLUSION

VANCOUVER OFFICIAL SAYS HE HAS NO AGREEMENT WITH MAN NOW DEAD

Long Examination of John Morton Fails to Shed Light on Missing Civic Funds

VANCOUVER, July 16. — Flatly denying any collusion between him, himself and Bentley in connection with city funds, John Morton, swearing-back chemist, was questioned today when he did not believe his former chief clerk mentioned him in such connection.

Three hours of cross-examination by George E. McCrossan, K.C., on prosecution counsel, at the select committee investigation of Vancouver affairs to shake Morton's evidence that he could not account for missing receipts.

Confronted with earlier testimony by Edgar Westmoreland, friend of Bentley, that Morton had been named by Bentley as being implicated in conversion of sewerage department collections, Morton said he did not believe his name was associated by Bentley in this regard.

He disclaimed any knowledge of possible animosity on the part of Bentley toward him, and again reiterated his denial of collusion with his former chief clerk.

"It is strange," said Aid. John Bennett, "that collections at Grove for June should be $300 greater than May, when the inquiry started. How do you account for that?"

GIVES EXPLANATION

"My argument is Bentley used up some receipts in May and that accounts for the difference," Morton replied. "When I turned in two or three sheets there was nothing to prevent Bentley from tearing up one or two of them.

At the morning session, Westmoreland recounted the conversation with Bentley, leading up to the alleged second confession in which Bentley claimed himself as implicated in theft of scavenging funds. Miss A. Watson, nurse, who witnessed Westmoreland's signature to this confession, also testified.

She did not hear any of the conversation to which Westmoreland testified, and only witnessed his signature, she said. Bentley had signed the confession before she entered the room.

Cabinet of Germany Sets Up Dictatorship to Force Passage of Finance Bills

BERLIN, July 16.—"Emergency measures" in the official journal today, Germany hands itself under a dictatorship of the Cabinet in the name of the Reichs President, Paul von Hindenburg. This dictatorship the Reichstag can, if it has the nerve, eliminate when it meets tomorrow, but only at the cost of facing dissolution and new elections.

Perhaps the dictatorship is illegal, since it is unlikely that the makers of the German Constitution referred to anything so routine as the present financial difficulties when they decreed that the President and the Chancellor could declare an emergency situation and issue edicts when the national safety demanded. Yet Germany's safety, but Germany's credit and prosperity are today at stake and nothing but a balanced budget can restore them.

Certainly the measures proposed by the Bruening Cabinet do not burden wealth so much as the bachelors, the upper salaried classes and the middle class population. But Chancellor Heinrich Bruening meant business when he decreed that he would pass the budget by emergency means or dissolve the Reichstag.

When the large Social-Democratic party yesterday refused Article 2 of the Bruening bill, which lays $1.00 head tax on every adult German, the spectacled Chancellor calmly announced that the bill would be brought into effect by a dictatorship edict. Article 2 of the bill, it is feared, would be sent home.

It is believed that a dissolve of new elections will prove strong enough to prevent the Reichstag from using its power to nullify the dictatorship when it meets tomorrow, and that the budget is safe.

GIRL SAVED FROM DROWNING BY FIVE BOYS AT VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER, July 15—Five boys saved Marjory Montgomery, aged sixteen, from drowning in Trout Lake shortly before 6 o'clock tonight.

The boys were Albert Gillmore, Stanley Gillmore, Wallace Gillmore, Richard Lofford, fourteen; William Munro, thirteen, and Clare Munro, ten.

According to the police, the boys saw the girl walk into the water, suddenly sink, and started crying for help.

The five boys seized a plank and pushed it out to her. She managed to grab the plank and the lads pulled her safely to shore.

FOUR HURT IN PLANE CRASH AT BUTEDALE

Officials of New England Fish Co. Injured When Machine Hits Hillside When Landing

A. L. HAGER RUSHED TO PRINCE RUPERT

PRINCE RUPERT, July 15.—Four passengers were injured, one somewhat seriously, while the pilot and mechanic escaped without injury, when a fisheries patrol plane crashed into a hillside at Butedale while preparing to make a landing here this afternoon. The most seriously injured passenger, Al Hager, of Vancouver, vice-president and western manager of the New England Fish Company, Vancouver, was rushed to Prince Rupert by plane for medical attention. One of his ears was partially severed, while he received a general bruising and shock.

Details of the crash were meagre here tonight, but it was learned that the other passengers, none of whom received any injuries, were Fred Payne, production manager of the Canadian Fishing Company; a man named Goodspeed, of Boston, Mass., said to be a director of the New England Fish Company, and another man named Rich, also a director of the New England Fish Company from Boston.

The plane was said to be a complete wreck. The crash occurred when the plane was about to land on the water off Butedale, about 70 miles north of Prince Rupert, and the pilot, attempted to taxi again. The plane failed to gain enough altitude, however, and crashed into a hillside.

Dr. W. T. Kergin left here tonight by plane to attend to other passengers who were aboard the unfortunate seaplane.

Al Hager is one of the best known sportsmen on the Pacific Coast, being particularly prominent as a trapshooter. He has been prominent in business affairs of British Columbia for the past quarter of a century and particularly in the fishing industry.

"Bob" Payne, who is associated with Mr. Hager in the Canadian Fishing Company, is also well known as a supporter of amateur sports.

SETS RECORD FOR LONG HOP

Col. Roscoe Turner Clips Four Hours From Mark for Border-to-Border Flight

AVERAGE SPEED WAS 150 MILES

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 16.—Knocking nearly four hours off the border-to-border flight record, Col. Roscoe Turner landed at Agua Caliente, Mexico, at 4:14:02.5 this afternoon, after a nonstop flight from Vancouver, B.C.

Col. Turner took off at 7 a.m., making his elapsed time 9 14:02.5. The previous record was 13:07, set by Tex Rankin, Portland, Ore., some time ago.

An average speed of 150 miles was maintained and aside from being tired, Col. Turner and his lucky mascot seemed none the worse. The flight was made in a monoplane of special design.

Arrival was timed by J. Allison Moore, chairman of the Board of Air Control here. William Van Duzen, N.A.A. representative, stated the record would be sent to Washington tonight.

STARTS FROM HAYFIELD

VANCOUVER, July 16—Taking off along an improvised runway between mounds of new-cut hay, Col. Roscoe Turner, U.S. flyer, started a nonstop flight from Vancouver to Mexico at 7 o'clock this morning. He used a specially prepared field on the Davis ranch, near Ladner.

Turner had no difficulty in the take-off, though his Vega plane was loaded with 525 gallons of gasoline for the long flight. Accompanying the pilot, as usual, was the six months old lion cub, which has become his mascot.

William Templeton, airport superintendent, Pilot G. K. MacKenzie of Alaska-Washington Airways, and J. H. Holley acted as official timekeepers of the start, and R. Carter-Cotton, civil aviation inspector for the Dominion Government, here acted as representative of the National Aeronautical Association of United States, to whom application for an official record will be made if the flight is successful.

BRITAIN SENDS TWO WARSHIPS TO ALEXANDRIA

House of Commons Told That Battleships Will Be Dispatched to Egypt Immediately

DECLARES CRISIS DOMESTIC AFFAIR

LONDON, July 15.—The immediate dispatch of two battleships to Alexandria for the protection of life and property in the tense situation created by disorders there, was announced in the House of Commons by Prime Minister MacDonald today.

The Prime Minister made it clear the Government regarded the crisis as purely a domestic affair. He said the opinion of view had been conveyed before the riots to King Fuad and the Premier by the British High Commissioner.

The British Government also informed the Egyptian Government it did not intend to be used as an instrument for any attack on the Egyptian constitution.

Since the riots Sir Percy Lorraine, High Commissioner for Egypt, had left Cairo for Alexandria with Hicky Pasha and former Premier Nahas Pasha, who is leader of the Wafdists, and warned them the British Government would hold them responsible if foreign lives and interests were endangered.

The Prime Minister was unable to give the House precise details as to the European casualties at Alexandria yesterday. Dispatches from there said one Italian died of heart disease after being hit over the head during the disorders. Eight other foreigners were injured in the clashes.

The ships ordered to proceed to Alexandria were the Queen Elizabeth and the Ramilles, both vessels carrying eight fifteen-inch guns.

French Flyer Is Ready for Ocean Flight

PARIS, July 16—Captain Dieudonne Coste, French aviator, expects to start his projected flight across the Atlantic to New York on the first good day after Friday or Saturday, when his plane, the Bernard Mark, will be ready for the trip.

He said today his course will be due west to the French Coast, then toward Newfoundland or somewhere south by way of Sable Island and Halifax, and down along the coast to Roosevelt Field. Until now he has used the same route, which he used last year when forced to turn back because of adverse winds.

LABOR GOVERNMENT WEATHERS CRISIS IN STRENGTH TEST

LONDON, July 15—The Labor Government tonight safely weathered another of the crises by which it has been beset in a series repeatedly defeating by 313 votes to 10 a Conservative motion proposing safeguarding of home markets against "unfair foreign competition."

The motion was made by former Premier Stanley Baldwin, and was regarded as a vote of censure.

Instead of a slender margin of two votes, by which the Labor Party avoided defeat during the finance bill debate last week, tonight the result showed the Government standing firmly with a majority of seventy-one, a margin so comfortable as to warn its foes to proceed cautiously in developing further moves.

It will be first opportunity of seeking job in the wheat fields, and there if additional help is required, preference will be given the thousands of Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia men.

Hon. J. A. Merskey, Minister of Labor, said Saskatchewan, and today that railway companies would be requested to discontinue excursion trains.

Thousands Applaud Conservative Chief In Ontario Towns

Hon. R. B. Bennett Tells Audiences How Liberal Government Conducted Affairs, Resulting in Depopulation of Dominion—Continuation of Regime Will Make Canada U.S. Annex

Prosperity of Country Is Paramount Issue

RENFREW, Ont., July 16.—Entering Ontario in the final stage of his triumphant progress through Canada, Hon. R. B. Bennett was greeted with inspiring demonstrations of enthusiasm here tonight and at Perth, in Lanark County, this afternoon. Large audiences assembled, not only from these communities, but from within a radius of a hundred miles or more, embracing four counties, applauded and cheered him in response to his frank and dispassionate discussion of the economic issues of the election and the policies he enunciated for promoting the prosperity of Canada.

Three thousand people packed the auditorium of the Armories in Renfrew tonight, and they gave him a tremendous cheer as he appeared before them. They listened more loudly still when he was introduced by the new Prime Minister of Canada.

PRACTICAL APPEAL

A thousand or more were before him at an open-air meeting at Perth. In these manufacturing towns, and centres of the dairying industry of Eastern Ontario, Mr. Bennett found audiences composed of people vitally interested in the economic conditions obtaining in the country and wholeheartedness with the problems. Mr. Bennett's utterances were directed to the business sense of these business people, farmers and industrial workers.

He discussed the issues frankly and before his hearers his definite proposals for meeting them. And the impression made by his presentation could not be regarded as somewhat less significant of a clearly defined trend of electoral sentiment in this province.

Mr. Bennett himself commented upon the size of his audiences, thousands, he said, were turning out to listen to the discussion of political issues where formerly there were hundreds, and the reason was unemployment and the stagnation of business and trade.

NOT BUSINESS REGIME

Reviewing the record of the policies of the Mackenzie King Government, influencing these conditions, Mr. Bennett was greeted with laughter and applause of his audience by declaring that "the trouble with this Government is that it doesn't understand anything about business."

"They are green in business; they are good at amateurism, but they don't know how to deal with business problems," he said.

The audience laughed and applauded again when the Conservative leader referred then to Mr King's assertion that one of the three issues of the election was the question of who was to attend the London Conference. In this connection, the Conservative leader said, with the newly-elected members of the Government about Empire trade and Empire relations.

"The only time Empire trade was mentioned in the House of Commons before the Government began to prepare for this election was when I proposed an Empire trade conference the month before last," he said.

MUST HELP CANADA

"The Prime Minister said nothing then. Afterwards he moved invitations for a conference. And now he says the only people who should attend are those who are elected.

"No Empire trade can be useful to Canada unless it is mutually advantageous" he declared. "The Empire trade we must have is that which will benefit Canada and the other parts of the Empire. A one-handed arrangement is no good. The New Zealand treaty is proof of this. If I give you my markets I should have something in return. We have had that the Dunning budget for more than two years and what has it done to buying its wheat from France.

"Empire trade, he said, must be beneficial to both parties. When they talk about the trade with the Empire they are as unaccustomed to it as that they don't know how to do it. They think they can wave the flag and talk about it and the people will forget the business side. Where there is sentiment and business there must be a business side. The way to make the British Empire great is to make Canada great.

PROMPT ACTION

"If we come into power we are going to pass tariff laws at the first session which will give Canadians an equal opportunity to live. I tell you that Canada can become a country, the only way is keep Canada from becoming a dependent country.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he would build two transcontinental railways, if necessary, to keep Canada independent. Mr King says don't provoke United States or Britain as we are here today, we will pass an act that will give Canadians the farmers and the laborers fair competition.

PROJECTED NONSTOP REFUELING FLIGHT ENDS WHEN FUEL IS EXHAUSTED

Three Aviators Leap to Safety in Parachutes While Ship Crashes to Earth in Georgia

(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

BOSTWICK, Ga., July 16.—Flying for nine hours through fog, drizzling rainstorms and darkness, Garland F. Reed, Jr., Randy S. Emslee and James J. Garragan, on a projected nonstop refueling flight from New York to Buenos Aires, took to their parachutes about a mile east of here this morning and made a safe descent.

Their monoplane K, a special Stinson-Detroiter, equipped with a Wasp engine, spinning into a grove of wooded land, was completely wrecked by the terrific impact. Its twisted remains scattered over several hundred yards, standing as a bleak monument to still another unsuccessful "record" flight.

Leaving Roosevelt Field, New York, 4:24 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, with a full WASP engine for the entire New York-Atlanta airway, the fliers made their first refueling contact at the Curtiss Field at Valley Stream, L.I., taking on about 250 gallons of gasoline and bringing their total cargo to approximately 575 gallons.

Setting out on the long flight to South, with the next refueling contact scheduled for Havana, Cuba, the aerial adventurers first ran into the fringe of a dense fogbank above Petersburg, Va., about 11:30 o'clock Tuesday night. They flew through the fog for more than eight hours.

FORCED TO JUMP

"Reaching a point estimated at about ten miles southwest of Jacksonville, we decided to turn back because of the proximity of land, ocean and the danger of finding ourselves over the water without gas," Reed said.

"At the point where we were forced to bail out I estimated by dead reckoning that we were within a hundred miles of Atlanta."

Garragan was the first to leave the 15-foot plane, crawling out through the gas refueling pit and dropping earthward from an altitude of about 7,000 feet. Emslee, next to go, was forced to break the glass in the cabin door and climb out, pulling the parachute after him, yanking the ripcord aimed as soon as

JEWS MAY HAVE SEPARATE BOARD

Mr. Victor Dore, Here With Montreal Party Explains Situation In That City

Victor Dore, D.C.S. who is president-general of the Catholic School Board of Montreal, is falling into the habit of visiting Victoria every Summer. He was a member of the University of Montreal party in Confederation year, representing the university at convention of National Educational Council held here last Summer, and is himself this year director of the university party.

Referring yesterday to the unique situation in educational matters in the city of Montreal, Mr. Dore said, as head of the Roman Catholic school interests, he was appointed a member of the commission of the Quebec Legislature to report on the request of the Jewish section of the community for separate schools. Hitherto the Jews in Montreal, who now number about 60,000, have been under the direction of the Protestant School Board.

Last session the Quebec Legislature, Mr. Dore pointed out, had passed legislation providing for the creation of a Jewish School Board, in addition to the Roman Catholic and Protestant boards, which have taken care of educational matters since Confederation. The Jewish children now have the alternative of a separate school system for their own people, to be supported out of their share of the corporation tax levied by the municipality. Should they take this step, Mr. Dore pointed out, it would be the first instance in Canada of a separate school board other than that of Roman Catholic and Protestant.

This is the sixth tour of the University of Montreal party and its members, some seventy-five in number, are enthusiastic about the beauty of Victoria. The party, which had been staying at the Empress Hotel, left last night on the return trip east.

PREMIER BAXTER ENTERS CAMPAIGN

SPRINGHILL, N.S., July 16.—Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, Premier of New Brunswick, entered the Federal election contest in Nova Scotia here tonight, when he told a Springhill audience that Nova Scotia was receiving from the Federal treasury $19,000 a year less than the amount received under the Government of Sir Robert Borden, even including the special grant made following the recommendations of the Duncan Commission.

This was not a gift or special favor from the Mackenzie King Government, he said, but a debt which the commission had found was long overdue.

WINTER RUN PLANNED TO WEST INDIES

Sir Henry Thornton Says Excursions Will Be Inaugurated From British Columbia This Winter

PROSPECTS POOR FOR ISLAND EXTENSIONS

Winter excursions will be inaugurated from British Columbia to the West Indies next Fall and Winter by the new vessels brought to the Coast by the Canadian National Railways, Sir Henry Thornton stated last night.

The Prince Henry, Prince David and Prince John will likely be used in the service, it was intimated, alternating between local and West Indian runs.

There is no immediate prospect of rail extension by the Canadian National on Vancouver Island, continued Sir Henry, but the railway had not lost sight of its plans for an extension of the Cowichan Lake service to the Alberni Canal at some future date. The route to be followed and other details had not yet been worked out, he indicated.

NO PLANS MADE

Asked as to the disposal of the national road for the construction of a hotel at Victoria, the president was noncommittal. Nothing definite had as yet been settled among the company's plans in that regard, he stated.

Sir Henry will sail on the Sir Prince Henry out of Vancouver this evening for Prince Rupert, on her third voyage. It will be the president's first duty off the boat. The Sir Prince David is en route up the coast, to enter the local ferry service, and she will be followed early in the Fall by the Sir Prince Robert. The Seattle boat will establish a night run from Victoria to Seattle.

MANY ENGAGEMENTS

Accompanied by Lady Thornton and party, Sir Henry arrived by the night boat, leaving Vancouver on Tuesday evening. He called on Premier Tolmie yesterday morning, was entertained at luncheon at the Union Club by A. C. Plunkett and played golf in the afternoon. Last evening Sir Henry and Lady Thornton and their party were entertained at dinner at Government House, followed by a dance. This morning he will receive a delegation from the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and will also keep other appointments, before leaving on the afternoon boat for Vancouver.

The party includes Sir Henry and Lady Thornton, Colonel T. J. Hood, R.E., who has lately appointed traffic vice-president, Montreal; A. A. Tisdale, general manager at Winnipeg; Howard A. Dixon, chief engineer of the Western division, Mr. Chappell, general superintendent at Vancouver, and Dr. John McCombe, chief medical officer for the railroad.

day in a great demonstration by Nationalists.

During the afternoon several thousand Egyptians assembled outside the Government building and began pelting it with stones.

The police had great difficulty in restoring order.

The reason for the attack on the hospital was an announcement that prominent people had refused to allow removal of the bodies of the victims of yesterday's clashes until postmortems were held.

The bodies finally were handed over to the crowd after the formalities of the postmortem. The hearses were carried shoulder high by the crowd.

The procession was orderly. Frequently the demonstrators shouted "Long live Nahas."

Nahas is former premier and leader of the Nationalists.

During the day a communique was issued stating in all fourteen persons were killed yesterday, thirteen of them natives. The other was an Italian, who died from heart disease, although he had been knocked on the head in a clash between strikers and police. Fifty-six of those injured required hospital treatment and sixty-five had minor hurts. Of the injured, eight were Europeans.

Among yesterday's casualties was Renan Bey, acting commandant of police, who is a British subject. Fitzpatrick Bey was the only Englishman hurt.

The demonstrators bore the bodies of yesterday's victims to the cemetery, where they were buried by relatives. Many were buried quietly.

The city was orderly tonight. The city was ordered tonight.

WARWICK PAGEANT LASTS THREE DAYS

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, Eng., July 16—Shakespeare's county, Warwickshire, begins a pageant today that rivals in magnificence and historical interest the famous one of 1908. It will continue for three days.

Warwick Castle again furnishes the background, fully 1,000 performers taking part.

All over the county little bands of women have made costumes appropriate to the periods to be enacted, and artists, craftsmen, musicians and dancers have united to make the pageant a success.

After Years of Darkness

THIRTY years after being stricken blind on his honeymoon, J. F. Fish, of Chicago, has had his sight restored to him. The appearance of motor cars, radio sets and airplanes amazed him, but seeing the wife who has been his guide and companion for three dark decades gave him the greatest pleasure of all. Mr. Fish was operated upon by members of the staff of the business college which he built up and operated with his wife's help.

with the world, and Canadians an opportunity to build a great nation."

A great deal of applause came in response to this undertaking on the part of the Conservative leader.

"There is no halfway house," he declared. "You can't compromise. Either you are for the building-up of the country or you will continue it in a dependent position. Mr. King talks of foreign markets while all the world steals your own market from you."

Mr. Bennett compared the policy of the King Government with that of every other country in the world in respect to tariffs. All other countries following the war had enacted legislation to provide work for their own people. Canada was the only country in the world to lower the tariff, and it had done it three times since the war, with the result that surplus products from everywhere were dumped into Canada.

EASY FOR OTHERS

"Senator Dandurand told the League of Nations that Canada was the only country in Christendom to lower its tariff. Were all these other countries wrong? Is Mr. King the only genius in Christendom? They cheered his policy at Geneva. Why? They know our Government was making it easier for their goods to come into Canada and replace our own?"

The baron wrought to the wooden industry by the King Government was briefly outlined by the Conservative leader. He read the names of eighteen Ontario towns from which one or more wooden mills had disappeared, and those of five others where two mills had been reduced to one; and one town where three or five mills had closed. In all, inclose of thirty-three wooden mills in Ontario, there are now six. The cotton industry had similarly suffered. The result was unemployment and shattered business. Unemployment the end, anarchy. It had meant the loss of 1,200,000 Canadians since the King Government came to power—equal to nearly half the population of Ontario. Every Canadian boy and girl was worth $20,000 to the state. "So what has it cost to keep Mr. King Prime Minister?"

DAIRYING INJURED

Latterly, the policies of the Government had been similarly crippling the agricultural and dairying industries.

Mr. King had said that if the Australian treaty worked a hardship he would end it, and instead he had extended it to New Zealand. In 1921 Canada was exporting butter, and now it was buying forty million pounds from New Zealand in consequence of this treaty. The dairying industry had been struck almost mortally. Even the Deputy Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa had written to dairymen and farmers declaring that the industry was reaching a condition where it was no longer on an export basis in regard to agricultural products.

Placing at $1,000,000 a day the amount Canada sent to the United States every working day last year to buy manufactured and semi-manufactured goods, Mr. Bennett asked: "Is it good for them, isn't it for us? Mr. King in power?"

"Mr. King said in effect, 'Is for Canada, not some other people. Mr. King said we must provoke the United States by taking tariff. Are we to be a country or a country? That is the question. I am not a pessimist. I believe Canada is the richest country in the world in people and resources, but who will put investments into a country where people don't know what is going to happen overnight?

"No, the election is on, and so we have the Dunning budget. Mr. Dunning is going to end the New Zealand treaty. After five years and taking destroyed the dairy industry, he says he was wrong. That is a good reason to support the Government, isn't it?"

Mr. King says New Zealand is part of the British Empire. I always understood Canada was too, I am more interested in you farmers than in farmers down in New Zealand. I want to see both prosper, but my first concern is for Canadians."

Mr. Bennett's hearers laughed when he referred to the increased valling duties of the budget as the Government's answer to the Hawley-Smoot tariff.

"When Mr. Hoover signed the Hawley-Smoot Bill he made the tariff for Canada on the sixteen commodities under the countervailing duties.

"One time Mr. King said it wouldn't do to provoke the United States, and the next time he was drawing that the countervailing duties was an answer to their tariffs."

Mr. Bennett proceeded to Western Ontario to speak at Stratford and Sarnia.

SAANICH LIBERAL CANDIDATE HEARD

C. H. O'Halloran Addresses Handful of Voters at Lake Hill Community Centre

Less than fifty Saanich Liberals gathered last night to hear C. H. O'Halloran, candidate for the Saanich riding, advance the claims of the Liberal Party in the forthcoming Federal election.

Norman Whitaker occupied the chair at the meeting, which was held in the Lake Hill Community Centre, and introduced Mrs. H. Smith, of Vancouver, as the first speaker.

Mrs. Smith repeated the sentiments which she had expressed at Oak Bay last Tuesday, and urged her hearers to support Mr. O'Halloran.

G. S. Pearson, provincial member for Nanaimo, also added his voice in the Liberal cause. After thanking for the number of arguments with which the electorate had been faced, Mr. Pearson spoke of the "difficulty we have experienced in getting our opponents to the centre of the ring."

GENTLEMANLY WAY

The policy of the King Government, stated the speaker, had been laid down in "the most gentlemanly and statesmanlike manner."

Mr. Pearson called for a definite criticism of the Liberal policy. The trade policies of the King Government, he said, had met with ridicule, but there was a policy to which no constructive criticism had been made.

"We are endeavoring to establish ourselves," said Mr. Pearson, "we are endeavoring for the first time to enter into some sort of competition with the markets of the world."

Mr. O'Halloran confined his remarks particularly to the Dunning budget, and to the activities of his opponent. The budget, he explained, was designed for the grafting of Canada with Great Britain, and would, if supported, constitute one of the greatest factors for progress in the history of the Dominion of Canada.

KING ANGERED BY PROVINCES

PREMIER PLAYS CONSERVATIVE LEADERS FOR STAND IN FEDERAL ELECTIONS

Charges New Road Work Being Undertaken in Effort to Buy Votes on Eve of Voting

BY RAY BROWN
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.

KENORA, Ont., July 16.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King turned his guns on Premier G. Howard Ferguson of Ontario here tonight. It was the first address in Ontario since Mr. King returned from the Pacific Coast and Prairie Provinces, and it was a fighting speech.

Why, he asked, had Premier Ferguson in Ontario, Premier Anderson in Saskatchewan, and Premier Rhodes in Nova Scotia, thrown their weight into the election battle on the side of the Dominion Conservative party?

"It is because the Tory party has always stood for monopoly, and it wants monopoly of control in politics as well as in everything else," Mr. King declared emphatically. "And," he added, "Mr. Ferguson is the greatest monopolist of them all."

"One of the worst things that could happen to Canada would be to have all your governments of one complexion, and that the Tory complexion," the Prime Minister went on.

"It is monopoly that the Tories are after," he declared. "Perhaps "They have been after it all their lives. But they are after it with greater thirst than ever before at the present election."

ATTACKS FERGUSON

The Prime Minister referred to the fact that the Dominion Government had put in the eight-hour day on all Federal work. "Ask Premier Ferguson what he has been doing in the provincial field of labor," he continued. The people of Ontario had sent Mr. Ferguson down Toronto to enact laws in the provincial field.

He referred to a statement by a previous speaker that numerous men were being given employment on the road by the Provincial Government just prior to the election. "Take all the work they will give you," advised Mr. King, "but remember the ballot was made secret in order that you can express your views."

He spoke of road-building programmes in the provinces of Saskatchewan, as well as in Ontario.

"That's an effort to buy up constituencies," he declared, "and yet Mr. Ferguson says I wouldn't give him a five-cent piece. I wonder what Mr. Ferguson would have done if I had given him millions.

"Would he have used them for the good of the people of Canada?" asked Mr King, "or would he have used them to advance the interests of the Tory party?"

There were two reasons why Mr. Ferguson was in the fight, continued Mr. King. The first was one he had given, desire for political control. The second was that the Conservatives had realized that the Government had a great issue.

"They know that the people of Canada are at heart British," asserted the Prime Minister with great emphasis. They know that a policy designed to this is bound to appeal to the hearts and the minds of the people; and knowing this," Mr King indicated, "they realize that the issue must cover up the main issue at any cost."

Peed, last of the three to "bail out" successfully, said the plane was such a position that the crash would cause as little damage to crops and other farm property as possible cut the ignition switch and then left the ship to its own devices. PIONEER MINER IS DEAD AT KAMLOOPS

John Likely, Veteran of Caribou Gold Rush, Was Colorful Character of Early Days

KAMLOOPS, July 16.—John Likely, one of the best known of the early Cariboo miners, died on Monday in the Provincial Old People's Home at the age of eighty-five.

Making fortunes and losing them with equal rapidity, Likely was a young man when, in the seventies, he entered the district looking for gold. Fortune was on his side, and he made a stake in the Cariboo, and then, in 1873, incorporated the town of Likely, B.C., on his slightly-fortunate claim. Likely (now formerly known as Quesnel Dam) is seven miles north of Quesnel Forks.

In connection with this town, naming ceremony, Mr. Likely, who came from New Brunswick, was made mayor, a position which, it was claimed, he held for most of his life. At that time friends also made invocation for comforts for the old-timer, which he continued to receive in the institution where he passed away.

Prior to 1923 the levelling rods used by the Geodetic Survey of Canada, Department of the Interior, were made of wood, specially impregnated with paraffin, and were standardized before and after each field season. However, since 1923 a strip of invar (an alloy of nickel and steel unaffected by climatic conditions) is attached to the face of a supporting wooden rod. The use of the invar rod has removed the necessity for rod corrections, which formerly caused great delay.

CROWN LAW OFFICER MAY TAKE ACTION

Attorney-General Has Close Watch on Symington Vs. Vancouver Breweries Case

BEER MONOPOLY COMES TO FORE

Close watch has been kept by Attorney-General R. H. Pooley on the case of Symington vs. the Vancouver Breweries since the writ was filed and he is but waiting receipt of the transcript of evidence and judgment of the trial judge to determine what action he can take in the matter. Not only has the Attorney-General been following the case himself, but, as soon as the matter was called to his attention, at the commencement of the action, he asked the Minister of Justice to take note of it.

Just what action will be taken Hon. Mr. Pooley did not care to presage until he had an opportunity of reading the transcript and the remarks of Mr. Justice Murphy but he intimated that he would go thoroughly into the whole affair and would go as far as he could.

The allegations made at the trial are to the effect that the Vancouver Breweries, through James Ball, an employee, entered into an agreement with a man named Symington to give evidence against another man named Ball, against whom the brewing concern had a grudge. Payment was to be made to Symington according to the length of sentence meted out to Ball.

Symington entered action on the agreement against the company, claiming that the terms of payment were not fulfilled.

His Lordship dismissed the case because "no right of action arises from a base cause."

The Attorney-General, as soon as he receives the transcript and judgment, will determine whether or not he can step in and institute proceedings against all these concerned, including Henry Richmond, Symington's lawyer.

The case of the lawyer, would, the Attorney-General said yesterday, undoubtedly go before the Benchers of the Law Society in any event for their consideration.

The Symington plea brings to the fore once more the whole question of the monopoly enjoyed by brewing interests in Vancouver in respect of the sale of beer. This will, it is thought, be one of the first things to be reviewed by the new board of liquor commissioners on taking office. H. B. Thomson, the new chairman of the board, will due in England on July 25, for Victoria. W. F. Kennedy, already appointed, is awaiting his return. A thing man is to be appointed to make up the complete board.

GOVERNOR OPENS TASMANIA HOUSE

HOBART, Tasmania, July 16.—General revenue in Tasmania had been well maintained during a period of financial stress and only a small deficiency was anticipated, stated the Speech from the Throne read at the opening of the Tasmania Legislature today by Sir James O'Grady, Governor of the State.

Financial depression throughout Australia, and the situation in London with regard to state liabilities, necessitated the most rigid economy, it was said.

BASIC WAGE REDUCED

BRISBANE, Australia, July 16.—The Industrial Court here today announced that the basic weekly wage had been reduced five shillings (about $1.25), to four pounds sterling, effective July 18. The Crown had requested a reduction of nine shillings.

THE smiling gentleman above is Ray Perkins. He used to be popular in "Judge," N.Y. Then he left the air to write songs for the talkies. But now he is back again on the air as "Old Topper," the Broadway clubman, who acts as master of ceremonies every Tuesday evening for the Crush Day Cronies.

Mr. Perkins has a sorrel top. He parts his hair in the middle. And his eyes seem green. His stuff on the air is breezy, smart, gossipy, of Broadway, and sophisticated. But Mr. Perkins is plain, matter of fact and without pretence. Besides being a performer, he is now in the production department of the National Broadcasting Company, and is frankly out to learn radio from the inside.

CLIENT GIVEN COURT VERDICT

JUDGMENT IS GIVEN EDWARD HODGSON AGAINST W. J. TAYLOR, K.C.

Award made of $19,000 and Interest at Five Per Cent for Eighteen Years, Less $1,400.

An award of $19,000, and interest from the year 1912, less $1,400 already paid, was given against W. J. Taylor, K.C., in favor of Edward Hodgson, in a judgment handed down by Mr. Justice Fisher in Supreme Court, yesterday. The action against Mallowmont Farms, Limited, was dismissed.

The judgment holds that it is apparent that the defendant received from the plaintiff $5,000 on June 16, 1912, and $7,000 on June 28, 1912, before the transaction in question, the judgment continues, the plaintiff had employed the defendant as his solicitor, and the court accepts the plaintiff's statement that at the time the $19,000 was paid, the defendant was acting in the matter for him as his solicitor.

SPECIFIC PURPOSE

The court holds that the defendant was expressly entrusted with the money for the particular purpose of its being invested in a specific security, first mortgage bonds of Mallowmont Farms, Limited, covering certain lands, and that the purchases were not made. The company, the judgment holds, never had any interest in the lands referred to. The money is held to have been, in that case, trust money of the plaintiff, in the hands of the defendant, and must be accounted for regardless of the lapse of time.

EIGHTEEN YEARS' INTEREST

As to the extent of the liability of the trustee, the judgment holds that the defendant should replace it with interest at five per cent per annum, from June 28, 1912, less $1,400 already paid.

The action as against Mallowmont Farms, Limited, is dismissed, on the ground that there was not, before the court, sufficient evidence to prove that the defendant, W. J. Taylor, had authority to bind the company.

TO MOVE FOR CUT IN INDEMNITIES

Australian Opposition Party to Seek Reduction in Ministers' and Members' Salaries

(Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's)

CANBERRA, Australia, July 16.—A fresh sensation was caused in Australia today with announcement that the Opposition Labor Party, for reduction in salaries of the Prime Minister and the Cabinet, and of the members of the House of Representatives.

Hon. J. G. Latham, leader of the National Opposition, gave notice of intention to move an amendment during debate on the Budget. He estimated a saving of £4,000 (nearly $20,000) could be effected.

There is considerable discussion also of the likely result of the budget debate in the Senate, as delay in the Upper House would seriously affect the Labor Government's legislative programme, and might even delay the departure of Prime Minister James Scullin for the Imperial Conference in London.

The Prime Minister announced today (Au ssies lay) suspension of the recent budget, will come into effect as from August 1 next. It will not apply, however, to sales contracted for before the budget was introduced.

ARGUMENTS ARE HEARD

WORKS COMMITTEE OF COUNCIL RECEIVES SUGGESTIONS ON BY-LAW AMENDMENTS

Stove Dealers Ask Protection of Existing Rights in Fitting Apparatus

A two-hour discussion on the proposed new plumbing by-law, held yesterday afternoon between members of the works committee of the City Council and representatives of five organizations who asked to be heard on the issue, cleared the way for the early completion of the by-law in an amended form.

Alderman J. L. Mara (chairman), Robert Smith and John A. Worthington sat as members of the committee, assisted by James Barf, city building and plumbing inspector. Representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, the Real Estate Board, the Builders' Exchange, Master Plumbers' Association, Union of Journeymen Plumbers, Victoria hardware dealers and the British Columbia Electric Railway were given an audience.

Objections advanced at the hearing centred around the composition of the proposed board of examination for licensing certificates, and also paragraph 7 of page 15 of the by-law, which deals with the connection and disconnection of stoves and water tanks in domestic hot-water circuits.

A. D. King, solicitor for the B.C.E.R., asserted that the wording of this clause gave rise to the contention that the master plumbers were proposing the operation of a close corporation in the trade. Hitherto, he said, stove dealers had always done the work of connecting ranges and domestic water appliances, but if the by-law passed in its present form they would be shut out. This contention was supported by D. P. W. Maunsell, on behalf of hardware dealers.

Much discussion centred around the point and finally the committee received a suggested amendment from Mr. Maunsell which would exempt domestic water connections for ranges and similar apparatus from the general control of a by-law, demanding licensed plumbers for plus work.

The Real Estate Board, Chamber of Commerce and Builders' Exchange sought a change in the suggested constitution of the board of examiners. The panel suggested was that a five-man board should be created, with representation as follows: The building or plumbing inspector for the city, an architect, a master plumber, a journeyman plumber and a master builder. The committee took the recommendation under advisement.

After a general discussion on other phases of the seventy-clause by-law, the committee thanked the delegates for their attendance and promised consideration of the suggestions presented, at the next meeting of the committee. This meeting will be held on Monday afternoon, with the possibility of an early report to the City Council on the same day.

OAKLAND TO TOKIO FLIGHT IS MOOTED

Kingsford-Smith Asked to Plan Hop for Next June in Huge New Plane

OAKLAND, Calif., July 16.—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian pilot, who flew the monoplane Southern Cross from Oakland to Australia, then to England and on back here, has been approached regarding an Oakland to Tokio flight, his brother, R. H. K. Smith, revealed today.

An Eastern company which is constructing an experimental plane has opened the negotiations, Smith said. The new plane will be either three or four motored with a cruising radius of 6,000 miles. The flight would be started from Oakland airport not before next June.

Commander Kingsford-Smith was on his way East today. He hopes to leave London on August 18 in a small English plane on a projected ten-day, six-stop flight to Sydney. He is to be married, September 22, in Australia to Miss Mary Powell, and they will come to California on their honeymoon journey.

The Victoria Horticultural Society's seventh annual show is to be held in the Rhetor Auditorium, View Street, on Friday and Saturday, August 1 and 2. A number of handsome prizes have been offered, including a silver flower basket donated by Mayor Ainscomb; a challenge trophy donated by Dr. A. C. Price for the best individual exhibit, and three prizes donated by Fred Cousins for novices. The decorated tables competition will be run as usual, and this year gentlemen are being encouraged to compete as well as ladies. Judging will be by popular vote, and each visitor to the exhibition on the opening day to be privileged to cast a ballot.

Among the display attractions which are likely to prove popular are the district displays of roses. Sweet peas should prove one of the best flowers in the exhibition, owing to the lateness of the season. A number of commercial displays are also expected.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB MAKING SURVEY OF GASOLINE PRICES

VANCOUVER, July 16.—Investigation into the price of gasoline in British Columbia as compared with other Coast points is being conducted by the Automobile Club of British Columbia, it is announced by Manager A. E. Craddock today.

A special committee, under the chairmanship of Harry C. Martin, presented a progress report on this investigation at a meeting of the provincial board.

Within a month, according to Mr. Craddock, this committee hopes to have complete information concerning prices here and along the Pacific Coast and be able to report on the extent of the spread in prices between this province and southern cities.

BRINGING THE C.N.R. INTO POLITICS

Was it Mr. Mackenzie King who laid the flattering unction to his soul that the Canadian National Railways had been taken out of politics? Whether it was he or not the announcement was made officially, which would infer that the C.N.R. should not be a factor in any sense in the present election campaign. In the heat of the contest Mr. King appears to have thrown discretion to the winds. If the administration and operations of the C.N.R. can help him to keep a hold on power he see no reason why they should not be used. They are, therefore, a factor in the election of party politics now being played by the Prime Minister of the Dominion.

If Mr. Mackenzie King has been telling his audiences what his Government has done in co-ordinating and building up the various lines comprising the Canadian National system. He has also been discussing the question of railway rates, and he says his Government "will keep up the fight for equalization until it becomes an accomplished fact." This is dragging the Canadian National into politics, for that transcontinental is keenly concerned about, and its fiscal fortunes are definitely affected by, the whole freight rate structure. The Dominion Government is departing from the principle laid down by Sir Wilfrid Laurier when the Railway Commission was appointed, by taking any sort of a hand in the making of railway rates. The Railway Commission was appointed, "for the purpose of fixing transportation rates upon a basis which would insure fair treatment to the shipper and carrier alike." This provision was made so that the problem would be removed entirely from the field of party politics. Now it has been reintroduced by Mr. Mackenzie King. He proposes to renege the work done by the greatest of Liberal leaders in this country. His action is taken for purely party political purposes which makes it all the more regrettable.

It is bad enough for any governmental candidate to make an admission that he will fight on the floor of Parliament, if elected, for the purpose of undermining the authority and defeating the ends of the Board of Railway Commissioners. That board is strictly a non-political body. When it is interfered with so that the ends of party politics may be served it will be immediately recognized that its usefulness will be impaired and it might as well go out of business and leave the question of rate settlement to be handled about according to whatever political party is in office. Mr. Mackenzie King evidently believes in political control of rates as opposed to the principle of scientific, non-partisan control, as decreed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. In advocating a political fight for "equalization" he has joyfully drawn the Canadian National Railways into party politics, for he says he will definitely keep up that fight until he wins. That is tantamount to bringing pressure to bear on the Board of Railway Commissioners to do something which will please certain sections of the community irrespective of the economic wisdom of such a course.

Mr. Mackenzie King wants equalization so as to strengthen his case in certain constituencies. It is seemingly immaterial to him that precipitating the Canadian National Railways into the realm of politics is hardly likely to help the financial fortunes of that transportation company. It may be remarked, incidentally, that the taxpayers of the Dominion are already paying immense sums for the privilege of having state-owned railways. They do not want further burdens increased even to gratify the political ambitions of Mr. Mackenzie King.

A DO NOTHING POLICY

There is little doubt that unemployment will persist in Canada so long as the ill-starred tariff policies of the present Government are pursued. Liberal leaders are now attacking the Conservatives because they have brought up unemployment as an issue of the election campaign. The trouble is that unemployment was here before Parliament was dissolved and the issue has been precipitated by the studied indifference of the Federal Government to the problem.

Mr. Mackenzie King, through his inaction, has himself to blame for unemployment having become the dominant issue of the campaign. He could have forestalled this eventuality by constructive measures during the past session. He rectify the conditions which have prevailed throughout the Winter and Spring months, and which are still prevalent. Instead, he went out of his way to say that his Government was not prepared to give a five-cent piece to any Tory Government in Canada for the purpose of dealing with the unemployment issue. That statement, emphasizing the attitude of Mr. Mackenzie King, was challenged by the Conservatives in Parliament and it is now being challenged by public opinion. The people of Canada do not believe that the task of government is one in which party prejudices should be carried to the lengths to which they have been carried under the regime of the Liberals at Ottawa during the past nine years. They believe, moreover, that unemployment has assumed the proportions of a national issue for which fiscal remedies can be discussed. They foresee no possibility of alleviation if the problem in the Dunning Budget and it is wherein it falls in this respect that the Budget constitutes a issue in the present election campaign. Thus it is interlocked with unemployment.

The fact that so many people cannot find work is an outstanding issue of the election. Mr. Mackenzie King has failed to solve the problem. He has refused help towards its solution stating it is a provincial matter, and the Budget he has revised offers no hope of any alleviation. It is natural that the people should turn to another political party in the hope of action. Canada wants unemployment wiped out of its lexicon in the speediest possible fashion. It is a poor advertisement for a country of such potential wealth as this Dominion.

RED RABBITS

An element of humor enters into Soviet Russia's attempts at industrial rehabilitation. Over a year ago a decision was reached to promote the rabbit industry "as an inexhaustible auxiliary source of meat supplies." A Rabbit Committee was appointed and instructed to produce between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 rabbits for the new year. The Commissariat of Agriculture at Moscow issued a statement that a well-stocked couple of rabbits should produce an offspring of about 1,000,000 in the course of four years. This was an indication that the Rabbit Committee's task was a comparatively trivial one.

Work was commenced on the project. A farm of 347 acres was selected near Moscow, and on October 1 last the committee reported that accommodation had been organized for "a herd of 5,500 head of rabbits." Only tame rabbits were to be cultivated, and all organized under State control. There was to be a rabbit culture settlement. The rabbits were to be kept in cages with wire netting bottoms. From Spring to Autumn they were to be taken out to pasture. The "settlement" was equipped with electricity and telephones for the use of the "herdsmen."

In the process of time Comrade Osipoff, a rabbit expert, reported to the Collegium of the Commissariat of Agriculture on the rabbit culture front. Then, nearly a year ago, it was estimated that by October, 1930, there would be a yield of 2,500,000 pelts and 3,000 tons of meat. Something has apparently gone wrong with the great industrial project. The State factories promised for producing canned rabbit flesh, rabbit sausages and rabbit pies on a great scale, have failed to eventuate, and, because of a general meat crisis in Soviet Russia, there is wonderment about what has happened to the "Red Rabbits".

The rabbits have failed to keep pace with the five-year plan for their propagation. The London Times says that "like the rich men in England who do not die up to the Government's expectations, the rabbits in Russia are refusing born up to the Government's expectations." That newspaper goes on to speculate as to the deep-seated cause for the disappointing birth rate in a class of the community not usually reluctant to increase and multiply. Probably there is mismanagement somewhere, and it may possibly lie in the intruding finger of man-made dispensations to interfere with the processes of Nature.

Police statistics show that criminals are more intelligent than they used to be, a fact that is put down to the progress of education. At the same time criminals are inclined to explain that the educational system is not supplying them with satisfactory business men. This leads The Manchester Guardian to the remark that "higher education, apparently, makes as adept at stealing a motor car but hopeless at selling it—a bewildering conclusion."

Diet as an aid to longevity is very much in the experimental stage. For instance, it develops that centenarians have either drunk whisky or have been teetotalers. Some of them have eaten meat, while others have confined themselves to a vegetable diet. What we eat, as a matter of fact, has far less to do with longevity than how we exercise.

GREYFRIARS CHURCHYARD, EDINBURGH

In the calm evening of this restful day,
When tranquillizing thoughts inspire the mind,
I think of men whom Time has swept away,
Yet left the greatness of their lives behind.

From its vast throne the castle grey looks down,
Dark with the impress of forgotten years
On spires and towers of this historic town.
That long have known great Nature's smiles and tears.

Here, neath its mighty shadow, calmly lie
Many brave hearts whose memory is for more,
Transient as clouds that charm the Summer sky,
Or waves whose music fades upon the shore.

They lived for freedom and high truth, which gave
A martyr's crown to those who nobly died
For their dear faith, that on each lonely grave
Flames like a flower their sacred dust beside.

The never-ending roar of restless streets
The voice of trade comes strangely to our ears;
The throbbing life of the loud city beats
Near this last home, which has no hopes or fears!

Yet does the grace of Him who gave us life,
And joy in beauty breathe around us here!
And that great power which stills all mortal strife,
Is light eternal on each sacred bier!

—David R. Williamson.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

"Life's mystery is death,
Death's mystery life beyond the veil
That hides us from the world of souls and souls
We cannot tell if we survive the tomb."

I read with interest your notes in The Colonist of Saturday last, and quite agree with Shakespeare and yourself that there are "strange things in heaven and earth than are dreamt of in our philosophy," and one thing that seems very strange to me is that such able and learned men as Sir Oliver Lodge and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle could believe that it was possible to receive communications from their deceased relatives. No doubt we would all like to hear the sound of the voices of our loved ones which have been stilled on this earth, but the faking and tinkling, raping that goes on in dark séance and darkened rooms disgusts us, and we feel that if our loved ones could or wanted to speak to us they would not be bound by any such cheap claptrap from ignorant mediums. Sir Oliver Lodge has a book which is in our public library, entitled "Raymond." In it he states that he had the following message from his dead son:

"A dog came over the other day who would have a cigar. He got it, but after searching he could not think so much of it, and now doesn't look at one. Some people have and some strong drink. They call for whiskies and sodas. They can manufacture even that."

Can you imagine a spirit drinking "spirits" or puffing a big cigar? Self-hypnotism, in my opinion, must have a good deal to do with spiritualism.

JOHN PATERSON.

3126 Harriet Road, July 14, 1930.

Dear R. B. D.—In Note and Comment of this Wednesday I read about the Hinter's expletive. There is no such animal. It is the Indian dam, which is the dam of earth or clay which Indian is supposed to shoot soldier flowing away. Hence the Hinter dam—a thing of little value.

Now, R. B. D., can you give me the explanation of the following, in a Prelimshire (of which I am a native) saying? "Ye canna hae the drink occasionally is aald not to be able to keep a hold on the pin. Also when he sobers off he aald to be have got the pin.

JNO. NEWBIGGING.

614 Marifield Avenue, July 14, 1930.

[If gifted with the wealth of imagination, the ready wit and the command of tongue and pen, women we have read about, we would shower rich blessings upon the heads of our correspondents whose letters we publish today. During these hectic political days, when the newspapers are overflowing with political speeches, when the air is impregnated with politics, when almost everybody we meet upon the streets wants to know what we think about the results of the election or wants to engage us to a slight flutter upon the chances of a return to power of the Government of Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, it is a relief to read something which will divert our mind from politics and direct its attention to other things.

* * *

Not that politics is unworthy of serious and sustained consideration. The affairs of this world are probably of more importance to the people of this world than rain speculations about what the spirits of the departed are doing in the world behind the veil. But it is possible to have too much of such a good thing as politics, even as it is possible to have too much of such a rain time as enraptured us to lift the veil and peer into the mysteries which have not been revealed, and probably were hidden from all mortal eyes for a good purpose.

* * *

While there never was any doubt about the sincerity of the faith in spirit manifestations, Sir Conan Doyle, we are inclined to have doubts about the sincerity of purpose of the so-called spiritualistic mediums who claim to have called the soul of the departed from "the vasty deep" for the purpose of exhibiting it to spectators in a hall of entertainment. For there can be little doubt that the people, including some members of the family of the dead author, who assembled at a séance given by a medium, where a chair was left vacant, were either deluded or hypnotized when they asserted that while they did not see Sir Conan come in and seat himself in the chair left for him, they knew he was there and were convinced that he conveyed a message to them through the agency of the clairvoyant.

* * *

We can understand the purpose of the medium, but we cannot understand the simplicity or the credulity of people who believe that a spirit created of all physical attributes can convey a message which can be delivered only through physical agencies, such as the power of speech. A manifestation such as that is neither witchcraft nor necromancy in the Shakespeare sense. But even people who are in a normal state of mind delight to be humbugged, and the mediums who make a séance to see a demonstration of the dead experience human weakness. We see almost daily demonstrations of it in our courts of justice, we are the victims of it in our daily lives, we sometimes think even our churches are not entirely free from it.

* * *

Man is a gregarious animal as well as a reasoning and laughing animal. He sometimes speculates on "futures" which seem to be material, and finds out to his hurt that they are as immaterial as the futures the spiritualists waste a great deal of time and much money in speculating about. That is his legitimate inheritance from a long line of prehistoric ancestors. On this continent many years ago the "medicine men" of the Indians were striving to rend the veil and solve the mystery and shatter all speculation, but there are many inquisitive minds that are not satisfied with revelation made by the Creator of the universe. Like Oliver Twist, they are asking for more, and there are plenty of charlatans who claim the power to supply their demands. It always has been so, and always will be so.

Possibly some chief who hails from the Borders will undertake to answer the question of Mr. Newbigging respecting the mystery of the pin. We never heard such a phrase used in our part of the country. But we have met tinkers and heard them indulge in expletives, many, various and vigorous.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Alice Michaelis

The farmer's girl must stay at home
And, though gaily her lips may sing,
Her heart sometimes sighs in restless mood
As she sees what the years may bring
But the gypsy girl goes from door to door
And free as the wind is she
To follow wherever her fancy calls,
Be it mountain crest or sea.
The farmer's girl longs for the gypsy trail
With its glamorous wandering,
And the gypsy dreams of a love, while he
Where life is a safe, sweet thing
But neither can break the bonds of birth,
Wealth, stronger than human will,
Hold the farmer's lass to her daily toil,
Send the gypsy roving still.
In truth it is sent that the path of each
Should be brightened by fancy's gleam,
And that life that stays and the life that goes
Highened sometimes by a dream.

When blanks occur in the tables, the tide does not rise to the height or fall to the depth necessary to be recorded.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

The depth of the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt graving dock at low tide, add 19.0 feet to the height of tide given in the above table.

NEW MINISTER TAKES ACTION

HON. IAN MACKENZIE ISSUES INSTRUCTIONS TO STOP SPIVS

TRUE OF U.S. UNEMPLOYED

Customs Department and Mounted Police Asked to Co-operate in Close Patrol of Border

VANCOUVER, July 16—Hon. Ian Mackenzie, recently appointed Minister of Immigration and Colonization, has acted to have his department prevent the importation of entry of unemployed United States workers into Canada, he announced this morning.

Instructions have been issued in Ottawa by Deputy Minister W. J. Egan to border officials to keep a sharp lookout for indications of attempts by United States citizens to make illegal entry into this country. Co-operation of the Customs Department and Mounted Police has also been sought, he states in a telegram to Mr. Mackenzie.

Mr. Mackenzie's telegram to his deputy was as follows:

"Please instruct border officials to take all possible precautions to prevent American unemployed entering Canada. Please advise what steps can be taken to prevent surreptitious entry at other than official points."

Mr. Egan answered: "Your wire instructions today have been given inspectors as requested. Have asked co-operation of Mounted Police and Customs Department to have all their border patrol officers keep sharp lookout for any indications of surreptitious entry into Canada at other than ports of entry, such patrols report to nearest immigration officer."

SERVICE TO WEST INDIES

Sir,—I am informed that Sir Henry Thornton is expected here shortly and I am hoping that the Provincial Government will take up the matter of provision of adequate transpacific service between British Columbia and Jamaica with him. Eastern Canada has saved millions of dollars a year in the purchase of fresh fruits and other tropical products since the Canadian National Steamship Company (West Indies Line) put its new steamers into the service between Halifax or Montreal and Jamaica, via Bermuda and Nassau. Western Canada has been severely hit out, and the consequence that we pay over $2,500,000 a year more for our bananas alone, the whole of which goes to the United States. Inc import duties. In justice to Western Canada and British Columbia we should also be given a similar service so that it can benefit both in our import and export trade with Jamaica.

At present the Lady Rodney and Lady Somers maintain a fortnightly service, with Kingston as the Jamaican terminus. The trip takes ten days each way, with a two-day stay at Kingston. This is fourteen days week and nine days the steamers are idle, which is certainly unprofitable. By the addition of two more steamers of similar class as the Lady Rodney and Somers, a fortnightly service can be maintained from coast to coast via Kingston, Nassau and Bermuda. The distance from Kingston to Panama Canal is 850 miles, and from Panama Canal to Vancouver, 4,000 miles. As the two existing steamers can maintain a speed of fourteen to fifteen knots, with a full cargo of 90,000 to 100,000 bunches of bananas, and general cargo, the trip can be made in a week. Four steamers would take fourteen days, and the trip from Montreal to Vancouver can be done in twenty-six days, including a two-day stop at Kingston.

The C.G.M.M. at present maintains a fortnightly service from Vancouver to Montreal in the Summer, and a monthly service to Halifax in the Winter. These boats take about thirty days without calling at any intermediate ports, and generally have full cargoes, which, though it consists principally of lumber, also includes about 1,000 tons of general cargo. These boats pass within seventy miles of Kingston, but do not call there because all their cargo space is taken up by railroads. The general Halifax-Kingston service to Vancouver, it is hoped, will be taken up by the businessmen of Western Canada, who are the people who are trying to build up an export trade with Jamaica, as well as giving the housewives of Western Canada a chance to save a couple of million dollars a year in their fruit bill. Jamaica imports 400,000 barrels of flour a year, 24,000,000 pounds of rice, 500,000 pounds of butter and 500,000 pounds of butter substitutes, 6,500,000 pounds of laundry soap, 20,000,000 feet of lumber, 4,000,000 pounds of condensed and evaporated milk, nearly 20,000,000 pounds of fish, to mention a few of the forty odd items of Jamaica's imports which are produced or producable in British Columbia.

It is true that the Canadian Government Merchant Marine and Canadian Transport Company to the extent of $1,000 a month for an experimental fortnightly service between Vancouver and West Indies. But the chartered steamers of this company have practically abandoned Jamaica as a port of call under an arrangement with Messrs Booyens & Hoyt to the Clyde Line, while the company keeps up a more or less regular service between Vancouver and Trinidad, Barbadoes and British Guiana. It, therefore, is expedient that the matter be taken up by the Canadian National Steamship Company. West Indies Line: it is hoped, Canada will be brought into service similar to Eastern Canada, and the visit of Sir Henry Thornton

BODY OF DROWNED WOMAN IDENTIFIED

VANCOUVER, July 16.—Mrs. E. Arnfield, Sixty-First Avenue East, and her eight-year-old son, Edward, were drowned yesterday afternoon in False Creek, near the Kitsilano Indian Reserve, police port.

The woman's body was found floating on its back by a rowboat half filled with water. The child's body has not been found, despite dragging operations by police.

Mystery surrounds the tragedy as there were apparently no witnesses.

Mrs. Arnfield and her only child were missing when Mr. Arnfield returned from work last night. His report to police led them to conduct him to the city morgue, where the body had been taken. He identified it as that of his wife.

WANTS CHANCE GIVEN CANADA

C. H. Dickie Contends That Resources Are Such That Greater Advances Should Have Been Made

CANDIDATE SPEAKS AT TWO MEETINGS

"Canada has not been given a chance under Liberal rule," said C. H. Dickie, addressing the electors in Temperance Hall at Keating last evening.

"With the great resources in mines and deposits, its forests, which unfortunately are being depleted rapidly, its fisheries and many other rich resources, Canada should be one of the greatest countries in the world today. Yet, in spite of these advantages Canada is not holding its own natural increase in population under Liberal rule."

He went on to show by vital and immigration statistics that Canada had, in ten years, failed to increase its population by anything approaching what it should have done.

With two meetings to attend last evening added to a garden party in honor of himself and Mrs. Dickie in the afternoon, the Conservative candidate for Nanaimo riding was forced to curtail to some extent the length of his speeches at both Royal Oak and Temperance Hall at Keating. He, however, at both places took occasion to express his sincere thanks to the electors of Saanich for the splendid receptions they always gave him and the magnificent vote accorded to him at the polls.

Retracting some of the things which he had been able to accomplish for the riding during his term in the House of Commons, Mr. Dickie assured his audience that after the coming election he felt sure the situation would be altered inasmuch as he would have a Conservative Government to which he would appeal for the needed appropriations.

The policies which R. B. Bennett was enunciating and the reputation which that statesman had for fair and honest dealing with the public were such that success at the polls was practically assured.

NO CLAIM TO CREDIT

Dealing with the subject of the amendments to the pension laws, which had been provided for at the last session, Mr. Dickie said that the Liberal party had no claim for the credit for this. The men who were to be accorded the real credit were the returned men themselves. The returned men's organizations had put forward a splendid case for the disabled men. It was much that the committee of the House, which met and went into the matter and which contained a fair representation of returned men, reached a ripe conclusion, and when the report was presented it met with the unanimous endorsation of all sides of the House.

The Liberals in the House of Commons were no more deserving the credit for what had been done than were the Conservatives or the other members of that chamber.

Mr. Dickie said that, speaking for himself alone, he would go even farther in the matter of granting relief to the returned men who had put forth an effort to make good on the land.

There was an excuse for these men not selecting the best of lands, said Mr. Dickie. Returning, from the war after the trials of years of carnage and misery, they were longing for a life of peace. They were ready to settle down and there gave them seclusion and quiet, and it was not to be wondered at that mistakes were made in the selection as far as the soil was concerned.

He would favor giving the lands to the soldiers free of interest charges in order to repay them in part for the sacrifices they made for the country. The cost of maintaining the Soldiers Settlement Board he pointed out, was greater than any money to be derived from the lands.

NO PERSONAL REASON

The candidate urged the electors to vote for him, not for any personal reasons, but because, in so doing, they were voting for the return to power of Mr. Bennett and the Conservative party, which was the party he was standing without, for a policy of protecting the industries, the farming interests and the workmen of this Dominion, make for the development of it along the lines which would result in retaining the young people of the country in this country.

The Conservative party had always been ready to sacrifice for the cause of the Empire. It was, indeed, Mr. Dickie said, for the Liberals make believe that the Conservatives were opposed to doing the best for the Empire. In the making of Canada great, the country would be best serving the cause of the Empire.

When Mr. Dickie left to speak at the second meeting, R. A. Wootten, president of the Victoria Conservative Association, spoke on the national issues that are before the country. He called for proof of the Liberal administration and the placing of Mr. Bennett in power at the election.

Percy Reeve presided at the meeting, which was well attended by a very attentive audience.

SUCCUMBS AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Dr. Charles Maclean Passes at Advanced Age After Long Professional Career

After an extended medical career, first in the Royal Navy, then in Scotland and finally in British Columbia, Dr. Charles Maclean, of 623 Luxton Avenue, passed away yesterday at St. Joseph's Hospital after a brief illness, aged eighty-four years. Born in Edinburgh, he was a medical graduate of Aberdeen University, and after acting there for a year as demonstrator of anatomy he entered the Royal Navy as a surgeon. He only spent a few years afloat, abandoning the service to take up practice ashore, and for several years he followed the practice of medicine at different places in Scotland.

The late Dr. Maclean came to Victoria in 1903 and left shortly afterwards for the Interior, where he commenced a practice at Fort Steele. Later, he went to the west coast of Vancouver Island, and establishing his headquarters at Ucluelet, he acted as doctor up and down the coast for the Department of Indian Affairs as well as carrying on the duties of a general practitioner. During a period of twenty years he remained on the West Coast and became known and respected by all the residents and travelers in that part of the province. In 1926 he retired from active work and settled down in Victoria.

Dr. Maclean was a son of the late Rev. Alexander Maclean, D.D., of Killearn, Ross-shire, Scotland. He leaves a family of three daughters and two sons, Agnes, of Victoria; Mrs. W. E. Shaw, of 17 Linfield Gardens, Hampstead, London, and Mrs. W. L. Thompson, of Ucluelet; Alexander, a lawyer of this city, and Charles G. G., of Woodfibre, B.C.

The funeral will take place from the B.C. Funeral Parlors at 3 p.m. on Friday, burial taking place in Royal Oak Burial Park.

MRS. M. A. WILKINS CALLED TO REST

Many friends will be grieved to learn of the death of Mrs. Mary Allen Wilkins, who passed peacefully away on Wednesday morning at her home, 1225 Whittaker Street. Her only daughter, Mrs. James Oxendale, 1258 Balmoral Road, her daughter's husband, and four grandchildren, are left to mourn her loss. Her only surviving brother, Mr. James Allen, and his wife, live in Alberni.

Mrs. Wilkins was born seventy-nine years ago in the old college town of Windsor, Nova Scotia. She was the daughter of Benjamin Fraser, M.D., and one of a large family. Her brother, Sir Frederick Fraser, late superintendent of the school for the Blind, in Halifax, N.S., died a few years ago, and that city also suffered the loss of another brother, Milne Fraser, well and widely known in Eastern Canada. During the latter years of her life Mrs. Wilkins suffered from the loss of sight and hearing, afflictions she were with wonderful fortitude.

The remains are at the B.C. Funeral Parlors.

KRESGE STORE OPENS TODAY

BIG AMERICAN CHAIN ORGANIZATION TO START BUSINESS IN THIS CITY

Local Help Will Be Employed in New Building on Douglas Street

This morning, at 9 o'clock, the new S. S. Kresge & Company store will open for business. The event is of particular significance as it marks the inauguration in this city of further competition among 5, 10, 15 and 25 cent stores.

It has always been the policy of the Kresge company to employ as much local help as possible in its Canadian stores, and to arrange for Christmas bonuses, restrooms and the like. The managing director of the Canadian chain, Mr. Fisher, is a native of Ontario, while O. R. Kennie, manager of the local unit, was born in Moncton, N.B., and was formerly manager of the St. Hubert branch, having been associated with the company for the past seven years.

The Kresge company first extended its activities to Canada some two years ago, and the investment in the Dominion is greater than might appear at first sight, the company having in the majority of cases constructed completely new buildings where sites have been purchased.

Of the nineteen units which were opened last year, only two reconstructed premises were used, the remainder employing local workmen and, in many cases, local architects.

Prices of from 5 to 25 cents provide for the sale of the widest range of merchandise, each store having twenty-seven separate departments and goods on sale which run from four to five thousand different items.

PLANS TO AID DIRECT TRADE

English Visitor to City Tells of Agency Formed for Promotion of Inter-Empire Trade

Here on an Empire trade mission of his own and of a practical and experimental character, James W. Westbury, of Ascot, England, is also the author of a pamphlet dealing in which he has related some of his former experiences in Canada on a former occasion. He is a brother of R. Westbury, of Cranford Bay, in the Kootenay, who recently came into the limelight when, with brother fruitgrowers, he collected a carload of fruit and shipped it to England to sell direct to the consumer. No less initiative has been shown by James Westbury, whose observation has led him to the conclusion that trade between Canada and Great Britain might be much increased by a commercial agency organized for the purpose of presenting to the people of either country the goods produced in the other, and actively pushing their sale to the consumer.

For this purpose he has formed an Anglo-Canadian agency, Montreal, and is himself traveling the country with English goods to show and sell. He has been greatly encouraged by the reception he has met. "The welcome I have been given has surprised me," he said in an interview in going to the smaller towns of Ontario, like Simcoe, where I have gone to see individual prospective customers. I have found I have greatly pleased with my plans, and after I have shown one man my goods he has rung up his friends on the telephone to ask them also to look at the goods."

What Mr. Westbury is undertaking is to provide an agency for only for the sale of British goods in Canada, but also for the sale of Canadian goods in England. In Victoria interested in finding a market in England for his products would communicate with him. He is staying at the Strathcona Hotel.

FINDS PROVINCE IS PROSPEROUS

Vice-President of C.P.R. Attributes Condition in Large Measure to Tourist Business

Grant Hall, senior vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, commenting on British Columbia's favorable position at present, said: "The lacing of tourists by British Columbia's prosperity and diversification of industry and products is perhaps responsible in a large measure for the fact that this province finds itself in an advantageous position.

"The Canadian Pacific Railway," the vice-president added, "is fully alive to the value of the tourist traffic on this Coast. The company's two new steamers for the overnight traffic between Vancouver and Victoria, the eight steamer sailings now in effect between Vancouver and Nanaimo, and the new service by the remodelled Princess Victoria between Victoria and Seattle, are all evidence that the pioneer steamship service on this Coast will continue to keep pace with the growth of this section of the country.

"British Columbians also will see the arrival here on August 22 of the largest and fastest steamship on the Pacific, the new 26,000-ton liner Empress of Japan, which will be the flagship of the Pacific fleet of white Empresses. The addition of this beautiful and palatial ship, which is sets new standards for ocean travel, is an important development in the growing commerce between Canada and the Far East," concluded Vice-President Hall.

Winnipeg and St. Boniface Plan Work for Unemployed Under Dollar-for-Dollar Scheme

WILL START WORK ON NEW BRIDGES

WINNIPEG, July 16.—The cities of Winnipeg and St. Boniface propose to group themselves in an effort to alleviate the unemployment problem under Premier Mackenzie King's dollar-for-dollar scheme. Decision to start at once on the rebuilding of two bridges as relief work for the jobless was reached at a conference today of civic officials of the two cities.

Tentatively, it is suggested the Dominion Government, in line with Premier King's promise that the treasury will expend an equal amount with provinces seeking to relieve unemployment, be asked to pay 50 per cent of the total expended on the work. The Manitoba Government would be asked to meet 25 per cent of the cost, the municipalities putting up the remaining 25 per cent.

MAKES RETURN TO FINE STORE

NORMAN G. CULL'S BRANCH NOW INSTALLED IN UP-TO-DATE PREMISES

Latest Equipment for Optical Business Provided at New Store on Old Site

NORMAN G. CULL

Norman G. Cull, one of the best known firms of opticians and optometrists in Western Canada, is to day located in a fine new store at 1158 Douglas Street, in the Kresge Building. This is the location that Mr. Cull occupied some months ago to allow for the construction of the Kresge Building.

The new store is exclusively devoted to the optical business, and is in charge of Mr. David Sinclair, optometrist, local manager. A cosy and comfortable consulting room is provided, containing the very latest equipment for the examination of eyes. Mr. Cull has also installed a modern lens grinding plant. The store is elaborately finished in American walnut.

The Victoria store opened in July, 1919, eleven years ago, and has since enjoyed excellent business. Mr. Cull arrived in Vancouver during 1906, and in 1910 opened a small optical business, which has grown with such rapid strides that it is today the largest retail optical house operating this side of Toronto, this including Pacific Coast cities.

To fill a long felt want, Mr. Cull has opened a fountain pen department in connection with his optical business. A complete stock of Waterman, Parker and Sheaffer pens, also parts, will be carried.

Victoria and Vancouver Island residents are invited by Mr. Cull to inspect the new store.

MANY STATESMEN AT BIG MEETING

Conference of Interparliamentary Union Opens at London—Closer Understanding Urged

LONDON, July 16.—The twenty-sixth conference of the Interparliamentary Union convened here today for a session lasting until July 22. Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Minister, welcomed the delegates, who included 400 representatives of thirty-one Parliaments the world over.

Mr. Henderson said promotion of a closer understanding between peoples of the world was the chief aim of the conference. Adding, "There are many staple still to be overcome.

"National susceptibilities are really aroused," he declared. "Traditional fears and hostilities remain. For these reasons we still have much to do before we can fulfil pledges that we have given to Citizens.

The Duke of Sutherland, president of the British group at the conference, made a plea for use of all possible means of conciliation to obviate international breaks and provide groundwork for attainment of internal prosperity.

British Columbia Entitled To Same Deal as Manitoba

British Columbia is the largest per capita contributor to the revenues of the Dominion, and is entitled to at least equal consideration with the other Western provinces. It was stated at the Parliament Buildings yesterday. This has not been given.

It is true that British Columbia received, after years of effort, a return of the railway and land belts which were held, in breach of trust, by the Dominion for more than half a century, but no compensation—"not a five-cent piece"—was allowed for the revenues collected. The so-called "railway lands bonus" of $100,000 was continued. But this never was at any time a grant in payment of lands. Such is definitely established by old documents and records.

LIEU GRANT

The subsidy of $100,000 which was called "Railway Lands Subsidy" was really a grant in lieu of British Columbia in relinquishing her customs collections at the time of Confederation. This is set out in the private journal of the late Hon. J. S. Helmcken, one of the commissioners from the Crown Colony of British Columbia to Canada in 1870 to arrange for Union.

British Columbia agreed under the Terms of Union to transfer lands to be used for the purpose of endowing a railway. The Dominion did not so use the lands, but instead gave cash subsidies to the railway company for the work in British Columbia, and the province contributed its proportion of the cost of such cash grants.

The lands were restored to British Columbia free, but nothing in the way of compensation for less than acreage was obtained from the Liberal administration at Ottawa, although such revenue amounted to at least $13,500,000.

In the case of Manitoba—which does not have a Conservative Government which is so distasteful to Premier King as to lead him to declare he unwillingness to assist any but provinces ruled by his political friends—Premier King personally in the midst of an election campaign, presented the cheque for revenue collected up to twenty-two years ago.

It was stated that the $100,000 "land subsidy" would be contingent. This subsidy should have been called a "Customs Subsidy," for it had actually nothing to do with lands when granted, but was so called in order to placate Parliament at the time of Union.

British Columbia in 1870 being a Crown Colony, controlled her own customs. Revenues from that source were three times those of other provinces of Canada on a per capita basis. It was insisted that, such being the case, the assumed population of British Columbia should be fixed on a per capita customs basis, and not on actual count.

JOURNAL IS CLEAR

This fact is set out in the journal of Hon. Dr. Helmcken as follows:

"Mr. Francis Hincks had virtually agreed to my contention in conversation that I had previously with him, so in the council he said, 'British Columbia is undoubtedly entitled to the money they ask for; not having a census of the population, the customs returns have been made use of, and according to these the population is 120,000.'

"Sir George Cartier replied, 'Everybody knows that British Columbia does not possess this number and we cannot go to Parliament and say she does. Why, Helmcken himself says that the population does not exceed 40,000, but that each individual imports goods three times as much as those of Old Canada. We will admit this—admit them to be entitled to the money, but not the population. Say the population may be 50,000—they come in at $3.75. Now we must make up the money somehow; suppose we give them $100,000 per annum for the railway belt.'

In this way the annual grant that was really intended to justify British Columbia in relinquishing her customs revenues became known as a Lands Subsidy; so when the Dominion Government this year agreed to continue it the province was receiving no favor, and in fact, in keeping with Premier King's announced desire for any province that is Conservative in sentiment, British Columbia did not receive "a five-cent piece." Instead, the province which produces more revenues per capita than any other, is still entitled to a great financial adjustment in its favor.

VETERANS ENJOY DAY OF SPORTS

Baseball and Various Athletic Events Enjoyed at Outing—Mayor's Home Run

The combined ages of the thirty members of the Aged Men's Home, who attended the annual picnic yesterday afternoon at the Summer home of Major Kirkpatrick-Crockett at Ocean Beach Park, totaled 2,310 years. The oldest member present was eighty-eight and the youngest sixty.

The picnic was arranged by Fred Landsberg and members of the Aged Men's Home entertainment committee, and at the conclusion of the afternoon's festivities the inmates voted the outing as being the best they have ever enjoyed.

The programme of sports which was conducted during the afternoon consisted of baseball matches, sports, and drills, competitive races and weight throwing contests. Albin and Sigurdson kindly put in an appearance in the early evening and held a lively contested four-round exhibition of boxing, which was greatly enjoyed by the picnickers.

Results of the sports follow:

Hop step and jump—1, J. O. Morris; 2, P. Hasty; 3, W. J. Tilt.

The baseball team captained by B. C. Nicholas defeated D. Spencer's team by a score of 8 to 4. The feature of the game was a home run executed by His Worship Mayor Ainsworth when he knocked the ball a terrific wallop, with the bases full and his brilliant batting resulted in his team winning the game.

The walking contest was won by T. Hendrickson, with Messrs. Lindsay, Hardie and J. Hardie, fourth.

Before breaking up Mayor Ainsworth called for three cheers for the convener of the outing, Fred Landsberg, whom he described as "Victoria's most popular citizen." The veterans responded in a hearty fashion. Cheers were also given for Mayor Ainsworth, Reeve Crouch, Major and Mrs. Kirkpatrick-Crockett and for the Davies boys, who presented Mayor Ainsworth on the inmates thanked Mr. Landsberg and his kind assistants.

MUST RESPECT MARKETING ACT

MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE GIVES SPECIAL WARNING TO OFFICIALS

Trouble on Mainland Due to Combination of Chinese Growers and Dealers

The Marketing Act of the province is affirmed to be respected on the Mainland, must be respected as well on the Island, and it is stated the Government has given the committee of directors the assurance that every aid will be afforded in the enforcement of the regulations authorized under the act.

This statement was given George Barrett, of Kelowna, a member of the committee of direction, under the authority of the marketing act, the sale of the potato crop is being conducted by the Fraser Valley Coast representative of the Vancouver Island Coast representative of the city yesterday. They came to meet the Minister of Agriculture and present the situation that prevails in the Fraser Valley in respect to the carrying out of the regulations.

The position is described by them as one in which a great majority of the potato growers on the Mainland are ready to comply with the regulations and carry out the act. There is however a co-operative action on the part of some of the Chinese growers and dealers which appears to be directed towards upsetting the operations of the act.

As a result of the discussion the officials were given authority to take the steps necessary to enforce the regulations. Some of the officials under the board may be specially charged as police officers to see to it that the regulations are lived up to.

UNEMPLOYMENT BIGGEST ISSUE

F. S. CUNLIFFE DECLARES LIBERAL PARTY RECORD CALLS FOR DISMISSAL

Vacillation and Change of Front on Important Issues Prohibits Confidence

The Liberal party should be turned out of power upon its record, according to F. S. Cunliffe, who spoke in the interests of C. H. Tisdale, Conservative candidate for Nanaimo, at a meeting held in the Temperance Hall, Keating, last night. He placed the unemployment situation as the greatest issue that was before the electors at the present election. There was more unemployment in Canada today than at any other time.

Mr. King and Mr. Cunliffe, had gone on record, before the motion came up in the House, as saying that it could not be denied that unemployment was a national problem. Later, debating the resolution referred to, he had said that there was no evidence of an emergency that called for assistance from the Dominion.

The new famous "nickel speech," in which assistance would be denied any province which had a Conservative Government, had been contradicted and it was shown that the British Columbia Government had made such a request.

The latest position of Mr. King was that he had promised to call in conference all the Governments in power, to go into the matter.

Contrary to the position taken by Mr. King, that of the Conservative had been consistent throughout.

Mr. Cunliffe dealt with national questions, the handling of which by the Liberal Government contributed to the unemployment situation in this country. He went into the history of the Australian Treaty and the results from it. He was for opposing the making of treaties but the carried way in which these had been entered into without studying the real conditions. When treaties were made to aid commerce the burden should be spread over more than one class in the country.

He was of the opinion that, in the framing of the treaty, something might have been done which would have brought a larger share of the lumber trade to Canada instead of its going to the United States. While Canada was shipping to Australia 14,000,000 feet the United States shipped 12,585,000,000 feet.

Mr. Cunliffe also touched upon the seasonal duties on fruits and vegetables, and showed that the Liberal party had vacillated on this subject and changed front when faced with an election.

The meeting was presided over by W. O. Walker who called upon the fruit growers to look to their own interests and the interests of the country and vote for the Conservative party.

Mrs. Dickie contributed vocal selections during the progress of the meeting.

Minister Throws His Home Open to Members of Staff

The entire staff of the Department of Public Works of the province was yesterday afternoon entertained at a garden party by the Minister and Mrs. Lowheed at their home on Beach Drive. Not only were the members of the staff included in the invitations, but also the wives and families, making up a company of something like two hundred and fifty persons who were present and enjoyed the hospitality of Hon. and Mrs. N. S. Lowheed.

Large refreshment marquees provided shelter from the sun and an orchestra was present, enlivening the afternoon.

In order that the offices in the Parliament Buildings might not be closed during the hours, a few members of the staff remained on duty until closing time.

Premier Tolmie was present for a short time as a privileged guest.

ENGLISH TEACHER LIKES CANADA

Miss F. Hunt, London University Graduate, Returning to England Enthusiastic About Dominion

One Englishwoman, at least, is returning to the Old Land shortly intensely enthusiastic about Canada. This is Miss Phyllis Hunt, of Maidon, Essex, graduate of London University, later science mistress at Mayortorne Manor, Wendover, a girls' school which ranks high in the Old Land, who has just completed a trip across the Dominion and is now spending a few weeks in Victoria.

Miss Hunt came to Canada about two years ago, with special leave from her school at Wendover, her object being to satisfy her curiosity about a country in which she had been interested since childhood (she did not want to see Canada as an ordinary tourist hurrying from town to town, so secured a position as teacher of science and mathematics in Montreal, and entered fully into the life of the community). A keen zest of life, quick powers of observation, and an open mind proved an excellent equipment for understanding and appreciating the new experiences which have come her way since she landed in this country. She threw herself into the varied life of Montreal, including the Winter sports, and found it all wonderfully enjoyable.

COUNTRY'S REAL LIFE

A month ago she started West, and in leisurely fashion has visited places en route, staying sufficiently long at each to get back a little into the hinterland. Only in this way, she believes, is it possible for one to see the real life of a country. She has tasted farm-life as a fruit-picker in the Niagara Peninsula; has visited some of the homes in the wheat-growing districts of the Prairies, and at Jasper and other places between Edmonton and Prince Rupert made friends with settlers and game wardens living out in the hills, chiefly because she really loved the life, partly because she wanted to know how the people lived.

"I had a special desire to see Victoria, having heard a great deal about it from a former pupil, Miss Margaret Palmer, whose mother, Mrs. Leslie Palmer, she is now visiting at "Gibraltar," Colwood. She is flatteringly enthusiastic! Before she finally turns eastward once more, en route for England, she will visit the Cariboo country.

As a teacher, Miss Hunt has been especially interested in education in Canada, and speaks with admiration of the generally high standard found in the schools and universities. She is also interested in immigration, particularly as it bears on emigration of British women from the Old Land, and her observations have convinced her that there is a place in Canada for English women "of a certain type," who are sensible enough to realize that they are coming to a country, which has new conditions with new demands and new compensations.

NO GET-RICH-QUICK IDEA

"When I go back and talk to people about Canada I shall certainly not encourage them to come out to this country with the 'get-rich-quick' idea, nor with the idea of getting all they can out of the country in a year and then returning home. I think people who come here should come with some sense of giving as well as receiving, and they should keep an open mind," Miss Hunt maintains.

Canada's culture and art interest Miss Hunt as much as Canada's scenery, railways and industries, and the work of the Toronto "Group of Seven," which she saw recently, has impressed her very favorably as a new and invigorating expression.

Two old cronies met one day and they had not met for some time.

"How are you getting on at your farm, Johnnie?" asked one, remembering that raising poultry had always been a strong suit with him.

"Oh, said Johnnie, "I've stopped the hen business entirely. I'm raisin' pigs now, and if you would like to see the best litter in Lanarkshire, just tak' a step doon our way ony time you like!"

"As luck would have it, Johnnie's friend was down in his district the very next day and called upon his wife to come to the door. "I would like to see the wee swine, Mrs. Brown," said the visitor.

"He'll not be back till 6 o'clock!" promptly said the lady."

CHAPTER HEARS I.O.D.E. REPORT

MISS A. B. COOKE GUEST OF HONOR AT RECEPTION AT Y.W.C.A.

War Memorial Work Done in Canada Has Splendid Results

Bringing back with her the account of the thirtieth annual meeting of the National Chapter, I.O.D.E., held in Montreal on May 27, Miss A. B. Cooke, delegate from British Columbia to the Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., thrilled her listeners last evening with the report of the excellent work recorded at the annual meeting, with special reference to that of the immediate work of the order. Last evening's "at home" had been sponsored by Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., at the Y.W.C.A., under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Gillespie, and was very largely attended. Mrs. Curtis Sampson and officers of Provincial Chapter were other guests of honor.

The total contributions to the War Memorial Amounted to $491,623.45, which, together with interest, royalties and sundry additions, amounted to $675,459.71. Ninety-six students had been awarded $1,200 bursaries and fifteen more are to be awarded this year. British Columbia's subscription had amounted to $54,405.56, and forty-five students from the province had received $1,200 bursaries. Two are to be awarded in 1930 in the province. It was announced that the overseas scholarships are to be increased this year from $1,400 to $1,600, the four Western provinces to receive an extra $500 to defray transportation expenses. Miss Cooke's report continued in part as follows:

"Competitions held by the National educational department will be carried on again this year. For the Christmas card design 'A Canadian Outdoor Spring Scene,' three prizes are offered, $100, $50 and $25. For the short story the first prize is $300, and it is suggested that a second and third be given. Two prizes have been promised for the one-act play, $100 and $50. Two recommendations from the committee were approved. First, the publishing in book form a brief account of the life and work of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, and other similar small books dealing with British and Canadian inventions, their history and development. The second asked that the National executive committee endorse the action of the Brest Chapter in making the birthplace of Pauline Johnson a national memorial.

MEETING IN MONTREAL

Details of the special, the entertainment planned for the delegates and the reports of the officers, were given by Miss Cooke. Girl Guide work showed a healthy growth. Miss Cooke continued, and the film committee work was given prominence in the reports. Each province reported its activities. Miss Cooke gave a brief resume of the work done.

"It one might give re-emphasis to certain departments of our work, maybe the following would rightly be placed in the first group," said Miss Cooke: "Education and immigration work under the War Memorial, child welfare and immigration. And further, might it be suggested that every chapter in Canada devote one meeting to each of these three vital works by having the reports read in full (National annual minutes) followed by an earnest discussion as to definite help and support being given, not only in money, but in personal study work and influence."

In conclusion Miss Cooke reported that the following resolutions were passed:

1. The establishing of a fund for the development of the work of the order. "I understand it is to be called the Stewart endowment fund as a tribute to Mrs. J. A. Stewart."

2. One to urge the Federal Government to so amend Section 274 of the Criminal Code as to provide more severe punishment for parents and others guilty of cruelty to children.

3. One reaffirming the order's endorsation of Cadet training in the schools as one of the finest movements for training in citizenship.

4. That a special certificate be given to all holders of I.O.D.E. bursaries and scholarships.

5. One very comprehensive one dealing with Empire trade and the forthcoming Imperial Economic Conference.

VOTE OF THANKS

Mrs. E. C. Hayward moved a vote of thanks to Miss Cooke, which was seconded by Mrs. F. F. Curtis. Mrs. Curtis Sampson presented Miss Cooke with a beautiful basket of pink sweet peas, which she charmingly acknowledged. Following the adjournment of the meeting, refreshments were served under the convenership of Mrs. A. E. Hopkins and Mrs. F. F. Corby, assisted by members of the Sir John Hebden Gillespie Chapter and others. HEARTLESS

"My doctor has ordered me to take fish for the brain, sir," said a student to a professor. "Will you tell me what kind of fish you would advise?"

"Well," said the professor, "if I had a brain like yours I think I should start with a couple of whales."

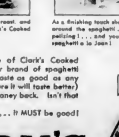
Joan surprised her Mother-in-Law

Bob and Joan had been married a month and his Mother was coming for lunch today. "I must show her that even though I worked in an office I can make a nice meal," thought Joan.

She first took some potatoes and popped them into the oven to roast to a rich out-brown.



Then she cut up the remains of Sunday's roast, and heated it with the contents of 1 tin of Clark's Cooked Spaghetti.

As a finishing touch she placed the potatoes in a ring around the spaghetti . . . Mmm! but it did look appetizing! . . . and you know what she called it? . . . spaghetti a la Joan!

A little challenge: try some of Clark's Cooked Spaghetti, then try any other brand of spaghetti you like . . . if Clark's doesn't taste as good as any of the other brands (we are sure it will taste better) . . . ask your grocer for your money back. Isn't that fair enough?

. . . It MUST be good!

PRINCE OWNS PRIVATE ARMY

Activities of Feudal Chieftain in Austria to Be Investigated by Disapproving Officials

IS MOVE AGAINST FASCIST FORCES

By JOHN GUNTHER
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

VIENNA, July 16—By its announcement of a court investigation into the activities of Prince Rudiger Starhemberg, Heimwehr leader, the Austrian Government has struck against the Heimwehr Fascist army with a vehemence that many interpret as the finish of this unofficial "home guard."

Starhemberg is one of the most picturesque figures in Austria. He is a feudal chieftain living in a remote castle of Waxenberg in Upper Austria, where he personally owns his own private army, the only military force of such a nature in the world.

Seven hundred men, completely armed in modern fashion, comprise this private battalion, which the prince maintains ostensibly as a personal guard of "jaegers" or riflemen. They hold manoeuvres regularly, are equipped with machine guns and gas masks and are stationed around Waxnberg, where, besides his fourth Prince Starhemberg maintains thirty feudal castles.

Last December police found and seized a cargo of 14,000 cartridges consigned to Starhemberg. Yesterday it was announced that a shipment of arms of unnamed quantity had been discovered on a river steamer near Linz, bound for Starhemberg's domain.

The Government at Vienna moved instantly. Announcement was made that a criminal investigation would be begun on the ground that possession of arms violates the new disarmament bill which Chancellor Johann Schober pushed through Parliament recently in an effort to wipe up Austria's rival armed groups. In addition, charges will be preferred that Starhemberg's arms were illegally smuggled to him and that they were comprised in part of stolen goods.

TWO LEADERS DEADLOCKED

Hindenburg Refuses to Take Part in Celebration Unless Steel Helmets Are Admitted

BALKS AT EDICT OF DR. O. BRAUM

By EDGAR ANSEL MOWRER
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

BERLIN, July 16.—Unless Dr Otto Braun, Prussia's Minister President, allows the superpatriotic steel-helmet organization, of which President Paul von Hindenberg is honorary president, to take part in the coming Presidential visit to celebrate the Rhineland liberation, the venerable Field Marshal announces that the demonstrations must be cancelled or held without him. For he simply will not go.

It will be remembered that during Dr Alfred Hugenberg's anti-Young Plan plebiscite, Otto Braun barred the steel-helmet organization from the Rhineland, lest demonstrations lead to a conflict with the French garrisons. Now, apparently, since the French have gone, the old President sees no reason why the organization of which he is honorary president should not be allowed to parade in the demonstrations around him.

Dr Braun thinks otherwise, and the present conflict, first of its kind in the short history of the new Republic, is the result.

Moreover, this issue raises the somewhat peculiar position of President Hindenburg, representative of the old order, honorary president of the half-Fascist, half-monarchist, steel-helmet organization, yet the legal and scrupulously constitutional president of a republic which the steel-helmets seek to overthrow.

SOUTH AMERICAN REPUBLIC HOLDS BIG CELEBRATION

LA PAZ, Bolivia, July 16.—Bolivia celebrates today the 121st anniversary of what it claims to be the first South American declaration of independence proclaimed at La Paz July 16 1809.

To facilitate the civic celebration over the successful outcome of the recent revolution, the military government June 27 declared yesterday, today and tomorrow national holidays. Business houses are ordered to remain closed and to keep the Bolivian flag flying during the three days.

AFRICAN CLAIMS SCOT TITLE

Claim of the Earldom of Traquair, one of the oldest titles in Scotland, and which has lain dormant sixty-nine years since the death of the last bachelor holder, is being made by a man of Johannesburg, South Africa. According to a prominent firm of Edinburgh attorneys, who hold all genealogical proofs, the claim is valid. The Traquairs were outlawed following the Stuart Rebellion. The revenue from the estate is, it is said, still collected for a special Chancery account. It is also stated that the main gates at Castle Traquair have never been opened since Prince Charles fled from Culloden. Traquair House, amid its beautiful Peeblesshire surroundings, was the first place at which the Marquis of Montrose rested, and that at which he spent the night after his signal defeat at Philiphaugh.

LOCAL SHOT LEADS CANADIANS IN KING'S PRIZE

Sammy Mandell to Defend World's Lightweight Championship Tonight

Titleholder Slight Favorite to Defeat Singer at New York

Mandell Having Trouble Getting Down to Weight Limit for Fifteen-Round Bout With Jewish Challenger at Yankee Stadium

NEW YORK, July 16—For the second time in two years ragey Sammy Mandell, aforetime king of the lightweight clan, will set up his crown tomorrow night for another eager youngster to shoot at in the ring at Yankee Stadium. Two years ago the challenger was Jimmy McLarnin the belting Irish kid who struggled for fifteen desperate and despairing rounds to convince the fleet champion. This time the youngster is Al Singer, sleek Jewish boy the French believes will develop into another Benny Leonard.

SAMMY MANDELL

This time, however, the margin of superiority conceded Mandell in advance is decisive. Sammy is getting along in years. He is having trouble getting down to the weight limit of 135 pounds and is a 6 to 5 favorite, but may enter the ring the underdog.

Singer is not considered a particularly dangerous challenger. Less Mandell has slipped far back from the pinnacle he reached the night he slabbed McLarnin's face with a scarlet mask and beat him to a pulp.

Although he has beaten Bud Taylor and most of the lightweights around New York, Singer could gain no more than a draw with Cannonier. Just a decision to Kid Chocolate and was knocked out in three rounds by Ignacio Fernandez, a featherweight.

Singer managed to gain his title shot without first disposing of Cannonier or Packie (Kid) Berg, one of the outstanding challengers, although he did flay Fernandez in a return engagement.

Mandell's record of late has hardly been impressive since winning the title from Rocky Kansas in 1926 in Chicago. Sammy has changed in only three genuine title defensive, winning decisions from Phil McCarona, McLarnin and Cannonier. He has lost two overweight matches to McLarnin and in both took generous beatings.

Hanson also proved to be a troublesome bowler for the T. & V's to solve, and before they had been all disposed of for the small total of 35 runs, Hanson had captured four wickets for 13 runs. Tyrrell and Chapman also bailed strongly for the Bays, the former knocking out 47 and the latter 32. Scores follow:

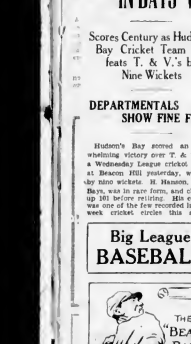
HANSON STARS IN BAYS' WIN

Scores Century as Hudson's Bay Cricket Team Defeats T. & V.'s by Nine Wickets

DEPARTMENTALS SHOW FINE FORM

Hudson's Bay scored an overwhelming victory over T. & V.'s in a Wednesday League cricket match at Beacon Hill yesterday, winning by nine wickets. H. Hanson, of the Bays, was in rare form, and chalked up 101 before retiring. His century was one of the few recorded in midweek cricket circles this season.

Big League BASEBALL



By AL DEMAREE

(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

The "bean ball" or "duster" has always been a time-honored practice of pitchers in the major league. While as great a pitcher as Christy Mathewson did not believe in it and never employed it, all of the great managers believe in it and insist that their pitchers use it.

Make 'em respect you," was the late Pat Moran's slogan. "Don't let 'em get a 'toe hold' at the plate. The batters will know you out on the park if they can. They have no mercy on the pitcher, so throw at their heads and knock 'em down."

The "bean ball" is really a fast ball thrown at or near the batter's head in drive him away from the plate and incidentally hide. Pitchers use it when the batters are hitting them too freely and they have too much confidence at the plate.

While I do not subscribe to this practice and rarely used it myself, it seems to be a necessary part to the pitching art. Many managers will use a pitcher if he does not use it when he has the batter in "the hole."

Other pitchers find more success in hitting a batter away from the plate by throwing a fast ball at his chin. It certainly prevents them from getting a "toe hold." However, this is all up to the individual pitcher as what strategy he needs to be successful.

DEFENDING U.S. NET CHAMP LOSES

Emmett Pare Eliminated by Bryant Grant—Shields Loses Three-Hour Duel

KANSAS CITY, July 16—Elimination of Emmette Pare, Dayton, Ohio, the defending champion, by Bryant Grant, Jr., Atlanta, and a terrific three-hour struggle between Wray Brown, St. Louis, and Frank Shields, New York, featured today's third-round play of the national clay courts tennis tournament here.

For three hours pounding the Pare-Grant match, in which the Atlanta midget vanquished the Ohioan, 6-1, 0-2, 6-4, the gallery had watched Shields and Brown. Eventually Brown won, taking the deciding set at 16-14.

Brown swept through the first two sets, 6-0, 6-1. Shields took the third 6-4.

W. J. (Junior) Corp, Kansas City, And George J. Jennings, Chicago, staged another enchanting contest later, Corp winning 7-5, 3-6, 7-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Jack Dempsey May Referee Bout Here Saturday, July 26

Local Sport Promoter to Try to Bring Former Heavyweight Champ to Be Third Man in Ring at Jumbo Davies' Bout

Jack Dempsey, Manassa Man Mauler and former world's heavyweight boxing champion, may appear in a Victoria ring on Saturday, July 26, according to information received yesterday from F. B. Richardson, local sport promoter. Dempsey, who is touring the coastal cities and performing in the role of referee will be seen here on the above date if a suitable opponent can be secured for Jumbo Davies, the Blinde Terror, who has been given the main event bout.

JACK DEMPSEY

Climbing up the flatte ladder in coast circles in spectacular fashion, the youthful Victoria glove thrower has met the best, and at this stage is a hard lad to match with a suitable opponent. Slightly short of stature, but built from the ground up, Davies carries plenty of punch in his power and has stopped a lot of good boys with his dynamite blows.

The appearance of the Manassa Man Mauler would mark the third of world's famous sport figures to appear in the show here. Promoter Richardson uncorked a surprise packet when he brought Ed "Strangler" Lewis, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion here and followed this up by presenting "Dynamite" Gus Sonnenberg, the man who wrestled the crown from the brow of Lewis. Dempsey is the most colorful of the more recent heavyweight fighters, and the world's largest drawing card.

CROWD ROARS FAKE AS BAT KEEPS TITLE

Fans Boo and Jeer When Fernandez Takes Count in Fifth Round of Title Bout

FILIPINO FAILS TO SHOW ANYTHING

EAST HARTFORD, Conn., July 16 —Bat Battalino, featherweight champion, successfully defended his title last night by knocking out Ignacio Fernandez, rugged Filipino, in the fifth round of a fifteen-round bout. The crowd booed lustily and roared "fake" as the brown-skinned warrior, never before knocked out, took the count after going down six times in the second.

The crowd pleaded with Battalino to bring the show to a climax after Fernandez, who knocked the champion down in a previous meeting but lost the decision, went down for counts of five, six, three, one and four from blows hardly discernible from the ringside.

The Filipino, who has met the cliffest punching featherweights and lightweights and taken their best clouts without waiting, never hit Battalino hard enough to mess the champion's hair. The fight round lasted 2 minutes, 50 seconds.

TOLLEY DOES NOT LIKE HOT WEATHER

British Star is Rarely Confident Before Entering in Any Were I'S Tournaments

CHICAGO, July 16—Cyril Tolley, former British amateur champion, will make a careful study of weather conditions before he plays again in future American golf tournaments.

The big British caught in the sweltering heat in the national tournament at Minneapolis last week, has made a tentative entry in the Western amateur at Beverly next week. The tentative entry is the weather.

"Tolley said he would compete unless the weather got hot."

Don R. Moe, of Portland, the defending Western champion, said, "He was burned up at Minneapolis and doesn't want to play golf in that kind of weather again."

T. Phillip Perkins, another former British amateur champion, who is resident in New York, and Johnny Goodman, young Omaha star, who upset Bobby Jones in the national amateur last year, are the talent entries of importance in the Western amateur.

BOB KRUSE TO GRAPPLE ZIKOV HERE SATURDAY

"Catch as Catch Can" Rules Will Be Used When Portlander Meets "Russian Lion"

BROOKS TO FACE OLYMPIA FLASH

Martin Zikov, of Chicago, known throughout the wrestling world as the "Russian Lion," will step through the ropes at the Tillicum gymnasium Saturday evening in his second appearance before Victorians to grapple the rough-and-ready boy from Portland, in the main event. The rough methods used by the grapplers in recent bouts here will be used, as the "catch as catch can" system will be adopted.

The meeting of the heavyweights will be one of an hour and a half duration, with the best two out of three falls. Zikov showed in his first appearance here that he has more than ordinary strength. He has speed and stamina and knows all the tricks of the game. Although Kruse got the nod over Zikov, the Portlander used every rough tactic he knew to turn the trick.

Rocky Brooks, Victoria's strong man, has been signed to appear in the semi-finals against Desmond Anderson, of Olympia. It will be Anderson's initial showing before the local followers of the game.

Tickets went on sale Monday at Richardson's News Stand. The Bay and the Two Jacks and there is every indication of another good house. The first preliminary will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Victoria Pro Hockey Franchise Sold to Tacoma Interests

TACOMA, Wash., July 16—Transfer of the Victoria, B.C., ice hockey team to Tacoma and purchase of Buster Huffman, Portland player, was announced today by E. A. Martin, head of a group interested in constructing an ice arena here.

The transfer of the Cubs to Tacoma was not unexpected. For several months it has been known that Tacoma would have a rink soon, and that a syndicate was after a franchise in the Northwest Pro Hockey League. The Ice Arena burned down on the eve of the season last year, the Cubs were put on the road and divided their home games between Vancouver and Seattle. They finished at the bottom of the league.

S.-M. RUFFELL SCORES 100 IN FIRST STAGE FOR COVETED AWARD

Member of Garrison Rifle Association Two Points Behind Leader—Capt. Holland Has 99 Along With Two Other Dominion Marksmen at Bisley—Sergt. Regan Registers 96

S.-M. Morgan, of Rhodesia, Leads In Qualifying Stage With Fine 102

(Canadian Press)

BISLEY CAMP, England, July 16.—With the excellent score of 102 out of a possible 105, Sergeant-Major H. Morgan of the Rhodesian team, win the bronze medal for leadership in the first stage of the King's Prize today. Sergeant-Major Morgan, who led 900 marksmen in this qualifying stage of the great service rifle shoot, won the King's Prize in 1929 and was in the final stage in 1925.

Keener members of the Canadian Bisley team are sure of places in the second stage on Friday and three more have a chance to keep in the running by shooting off with ninety-nine others for thirty remaining places in the second stage. In addition, ten Canadians, not members of the Canadian Bisley team, will be in the second stage.

Sergeant-Major Morgan, bronze medalist today, is the only army man who has won the King's Medal three times in succession. This medal goes to the best shot "in the army at home," being fired under service conditions—deliberate fire, fire with movement, rapid fire and snapshooting.

HIGH CALIBRE SHOOTING

With almost one thousand marksmen shooting in the opening stage of the King's Prize, the programme of the National Rifle Association meeting was made up of six other events today. The marksmen fired seven shot at 400 yards, 500 yards and 200 yards. The scoring was of a higher calibre than last year. A year ago scores of 93 qualified. Today the marksman had to get 96 to be sure of a place in the second stage. Marksmen totalling scores of 96, and they numbered 122, found themselves left to fight it out for thirty remaining places, the second stage being limited to the best 300 scorers of today.

The best Canadian today was Sgt.-Major W. H. Ruffell, of Victoria, who fired 33, 32 and 35 at the respective ranges for a total of 100. After pts.-Major Morgan's 102 there were five competitors with 101 and seventeen, including Ruffell, with scores of 100. C.S.M. George Emslie, of Toronto, scored 99. Capt. W. M. G. Holland, of Victoria, 99; C.S.M. Jamieson, of Toronto, 99; Lieut. Desmond Burke, of Ottawa, King's Prize winner of 1924, scored 98, and Capt. J. E. Foreman, of Hamilton, 98.

The five other Canadian teamsmen entering the second stage without further shooting are Lieut. Bowen, Edmonton, 97; C.S.M. W. Hawkins, Toronto, winner in 1922, with 97; Sgt. Alex. Parnell, of Montreal, 96; Sgt. J. H. Regan, Victoria, 96, and C.S.M. M. Rusk, Ottawa, 96.

Two attached Canadians are entering the second stage are Lieut. C. A. Mobsley, of Winnipeg, with 98, and Capt. Alex. Martin, formerly of Calgary, with 96.

CANADIANS WIN AGGREGATE

Canadian marksmen won the annual prize of £100 awarded to the team, other than the Mother Country, with the highest aggregate.

Lieut. A. C. Carter, of Toronto, led the Canadians in the Corporation of the City of London match, fired at 1,000 yards. He scored 46 out of a possible 50.

In the day's other individual match, the first stage of the St. George's Challenge Vase, Lieut. O. A. Mobsley, of Winnipeg, had a perfect 50. The best of the Canadian teamsmen were Lieut. D. Burke, Lieut. Bowen and Capt. W. Holland, Victoria, with 49.

Lieut. A. R. Falkner (formerly of Fort William, who is sixty-three years of age, defeated two youthful marksmen to capture The Daily Telegraph Silver Cup.

MICHIGAN BOXERS WILL GET NO MORE FIGHTS GUARANTEES

DETROIT, July 16. — Hereafter there will be no guaranteed purses for fighters in Michigan. This announcement was made by James M. "Bilngo" Brown, chairman of the State Boxing Commission, who declared that "a fighter is worth only what he can earn at the gate," and that henceforth fighters will perform for a share of the receipts.

Chairman Brown said he intends to ask the National Boxing Association to adopt a similar rule.

The new policy was announced after a bout between Eddie Shea, Chicago, and Lew Massey, Philadelphia, scheduled for Monday night, was called off because the promoter did not take in enough to pay Shea's $3,500 guarantee.

ROYALS ADVANCE IN CONNAUGHT FOOTBALL

Mainlanders Defeat Calgary Hillhursts 8-1 in Final Match

Jack Coulter Scores Four Counters as Royal City Squad Eliminates Prairie Champs—Visitors Hopelessly Outclassed

VANCOUVER, July 16. — New Westminster Royals, soccer football champions of British Columbia, eliminated the Alberta titleholders Calgary Hillhursts, from further play in the Dominion championship series by defeating the Alberta 8-1, in the second contest of their two-game series here this evening. New Westminster won the first game 3-1, taking the round 10-2. In winning the second game the Royals displayed a calibre of soccer that should carry them far in their quest for Canadian honors.

They hopelessly outclassed the visitors in every department of play and won as they pleased. The Calgarians showed little on the offensive, while their defence, which was weak throughout, collapsed completely in the last fifteen minutes of play, and it was only through the good goaltending of Pinnell that the score did not mount higher.

The Hillhursts were able to hold their own only during the opening minutes of the first half. They ran in the first goal, via Henshaw, after ten minutes of play. The Royals then gradually took command of the play and it was all over but the cheering by the time the half-time whistle blew. Twenty minutes after Henshaw had scored, D'Easum got the equalizer on a pass from McDougall. Coulter garnered two counters for himself before the period ended, and the Royals led 3-1.

The visitors battled desperately in the second half to make up for lost ground, but they could do nothing with the dominant opponents. After the Hillhurst flurry had died down, the Royals took up the pace again. Coulter got his third of the 4-1, and was followed by Pinnell, who neatly tricked Pinnell. McDougall made it 6-1, and a short time later Coulter got his fourth goal of the match. Foster scored the eighth and final counter for the Royals just before full time.

The line-ups:

Calgary — Pinnell; Foster and Paynter; Austin, Munro and Adams; Delpee, Morris, Drinkwater, Wakeland and Henshaw.

New Westminster — Sanford; Anderson and Taylor; Rimmer, Stoddart and Dalton; McDougall, Foster, Coulter, Turner and D'Easum.

Referee: Johnny Dewar.

FEATURE RACE IS CAPTURED BY DENNY WALKER

Y.M.C.A. Aquatic Flash Wins Half-Mile Event at Annual Langford Swimming Gala

J.B.A.A. YOUTH WINS OPEN RACE

LANGFORD, July 17.—Denny Walker, sixteen-year-old aquatic ace, bearing the colors of the Victoria Y.M.C.A., flashed great form here today in the annual swimming gala held under the direction of the Crystal Garden Swimming Club, when he disturbed the well-sheltered waters of Langford Lake to win the feature event on the programme, the half-mile distance race.

Crowds lined the banks and various pavilions to see Walker circle his way to victory in the fine time of twelve and a half minutes, nearly two full minutes ahead of the second place swimmer, Bill Pindera, who made the distance in 14 minutes 47 seconds.

Winnie Pollard, of the Crystal Garden Club, took third place in 17 minutes 33 seconds. The times are considered exceptionally good. Walker took the lead from the start, with Pindera a close second.

On the homward stretch the winner increased his stroke and steadily pulled away from his rival, finding him by over one hundred yards at the finish.

Getting away to a splendid start and using a strong, steady stroke for the entire distance, H. Pinnell, of the J.B.A.A., touched the finishing line in first place to capture the youth, open, 40-yard race. Denny Walker was second and Bill Findlay a good third.

Miss Pat Copeland and Art Stott, both from the Y.M.C.A., won the women's and men's diving honors after executing some beautiful dives. Eleanor Peden was second and Florence Fraser third in the women's competition, while Jack Bryden and Bill Clark, Crystal Garden, took second and third places in the men, respectively.

Colin McPayden won the canoe race, while Bob McMillan walked off with the boat race, with John Pennington in second place. The remainder of the events were keenly contested, with the winners being forced to the limit.

Refuses Offers to Turn Pro

HELENE MADISON

SEATTLE, July 16.—The prospect of representing the United States in the Olympic Games at Los Angeles in 1932 means more to Helene Madison, record-breaking Seattle girl swimmer, than $16,000 for turning professional. After consulting her parents and coach, Ray Daughters, she said today she would remain an amateur.

The only other information disclosed concerning the offer was that it came from New York promoters.

Miss Madison also said she would focus her attention for the next two seasons on getting into the best form and condition for the Olympics.

Sparling, O. Ryall and Brawn Reach Quarters

Three Vancouver Net Men Advance in B.C. Clay Courts Meet Along With Five Americans—Marie McNab Loses to Portlander

VANCOUVER, July 16.—Three Canadians, two from the Jericho Tennis Club and one from the Vancouver Tennis Club, remain in the men's singles of the British Columbia clay courts tennis championships at the Jericho Tennis Club. George Sparling and Owen Ryall of the Jericho Club, and Jack Brawn, stellar youngster of the Vancouver Club, are still in the race for honours, and reached the quarter-finals of the tournament today.

Tomorrow Brawn, who is in the upper half of the draw, is to meet Joe Coughlin, left-hander from San Francisco. Sparling, in the lower half, meets Frank Gove, also from San Francisco, while Ryall meets hard-hitting Hank Pruscoff, of Seattle, in the other lower half bracket. Bradshaw Harrison, of Tacoma, and Bob Hogue, of Seattle, mingle in the other upper half match.

Today's play was nothing exceptional, with its doubles matches providing most of the excitement throughout the day.

Amid the best contested match of the day brought together Ryall and Pruscoff, teamed against Ben Johnson and Don Lewis, of Portland. Pruscoff and Ryall won the match after two interesting and hard-fought sets, in which the youngsters put on a fight all the way, scores being 6-4, 6-8.

Coughlin and Gove, the San Francisco pair, eliminated the strong team of Jack Brawn and Dune Williams, winning in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2.

Eddie McIlravine, Jericho ace, put up a stern battle against Pruscoff in the men's singles, losing out in two sets, 7-5, 7-5. George Sparling had a grueling three-set match with Dune Williams, winning 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

Muriel Munro, of the Vancouver Tennis Club, is the lone Canadian in the semi-finals of the women's singles. She eliminated Mrs. Dorothea Peron, San Francisco, 6-3, 6-2, in a match in which the visitor just couldn't get any breaks. Charlotte Miller, of Portland, put out Marie McNab, Vancouver, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2, while Alice Marule, San Francisco junior, came along nicely to win from Dot Gillespie, Vancouver, 6-4, 6-1. Mrs. Cobb, Meyer Cross, San Francisco, put out Mrs. Billy Turner, Berkeley, 6-2, 6-1.

KID CHOCOLATE WINS HARD MIX

Dusky Cuban Outpoints Italian in Ten Round Battle at New York Stadium

NEW YORK, July 16.—Kid Chocolate, Cuban negro featherweight contender, outpointed Luigio Quadrini, of Italy, in a hard-fought ten-round bout at the Queensbrough Stadium last night. Chocolate weighed 126 1-2, Quadrini 126.

Chocolate found the Italian featherweight a somewhat difficult opponent to fathom. The Italian fought a great defensive battle.

Only in the ninth was Quadrini in serious danger of a knockout. Chocolate smashed the Italian to the ropes with a rushing cross to the chin and then leaped in tossing both hands to the face and body. Quadrini weathered the storm, however.

Bobby Tees High; Hits Through

By SOL METZGER

Were you to watch Jones in his final drive for the 1930 United States Open Golf Championship at Interlachen, you would notice at one point about his tee shots. They fly with neither marked high or low trajectory, and when they alight, even in a hard wind, they roll for some little distance. Bobby gets a ball that gets there in spite of any element of nature.

As stated yesterday, this was not the case in his early competitive days. Why the change for the better? First, Bobby tees his ball fully an inch high because he feels he uses a deep-faced driver in place of the shallow one of a long time back. Third, he swings through the ball, straight through it, instead of hitting it down.

The result is all anyone can ask for in the way of a drive. Just remember Bobby's experience and profit from it. Tee them high, instead of low. Hit them straight through, instead of down. It is easier to hit a ball so teed, and it is much easier to do it, with a deep-faced driver than a shallow one. That's simple and well worth remembering.

MARIE DRESSLER SEEN AS BRIDE

Screen's Greatest Comedy Actress Appearing at the Dominion Theatre in "Caught Short"

"I now declare you to be man and wife . . ."

The minister was just about to say these words, and then the stock market crashed!

And this situation is but one of the many filled with laughs which an uproarious audience find in the new Marie Dressler-Polly Moran talkie comedy now at the Dominion Theatre for three days. The title is "Caught Short," and is an original by Willard Mack.

Polly experiments with the stock market. Flirts in "American Cinema" and "Sentiwell Soap" prove successful, and she eventually entices Marie into the mystic maze of Wall Street. Good friends are parted frequently by the quarrels of prosperity, and when this happens it also throws the monkey wrench into a budding romance between Marie's daughter, Anita Page, and Polly's son, Charles Morton.

STIRRING DRAMA NOW AT CAPITOL

New Talking Picture, "Framed," Has Different Theme, With Evelyn Brent in Leading Role

New talking picture thrills for local audiences are promised today when "Framed," Radio Pictures' stirring drama, opens its engagement at the Capitol Theatre.

Startingly different in theme and powerful in presentation, "Framed" is said to be a most unusual picture. The drama has been heralded as one of the best films of the year by critics and audiences in cities where it has been shown previously, and advance indications are that local theatregoers will find it a most absorbing picture.

Evelyn Brent, feminine lead in "Underworld," "Interference," "Fast Company," "Slightly Scarlet," and other notable films, is featured along with Regis Toomey, who scored sensationally in "Alibi" and "Street of Chance."

COMEDY STAR PLAYS CHINESE

Harold Lloyd, at Coliseum Today in "Welcome Danger," Makes Even Orientals Laugh

Playing "dead Chinaman" is a lucrative position, at least so Quinks Hoo Hoo Sun, who worked for Harold Lloyd in his latest picture, "Welcome Danger," at the Coliseum Theatre starting today.

Hoo Hoo Sun is an old Chinaman and the checks from Lloyd enable him to prepare for Winter by laying in an ample supply of rice and dried fish.

Incidentally, the Oriental had a hard time playing "dead," for Lloyd's antics make even the Oriental laugh.

"Welcome Danger" is the story of the son of a rip-snortin' Western police officer, who prefers picking flowers to hunting criminals. But the day comes when he must match his wits with the most wily in Chinatown, with the result of combined darting and comical situations.

A thoroughly enjoyable film of New York's underworld opens at the Playhouse Theatre today. It is "Temptation," a Columbia all-talking production, with Lois Wilson and Lawrence Gray in the leading roles.

Julie Becker, an intelligent, hard-working girl, is determined that life shall not deny her of the material comforts. Sam Gordon, a thrifty prosperous German offers her marriage. It seems to be the solution to her problems. Shortly before the day appointed for her marriage to Gordon, Julie meets Larry Donovan, recently released from prison. He appeals to her sympathy. She falls in love with him. She asks Gordon to release her from her engagement and links her life with Donovan's just in time to prevent him from returning to crime.

Imported "Talkie" Has John Stuart In Leading Role

John Stuart, who plays the leading male role in "Kitty," a World Wide imported talking picture which is coming to the Playhouse Theatre next week, is well fitted for his part, that of a young English officer, insamuch as he served during the war in the British army. He is a particularly handsome leading man, being five feet eleven inches tall with brown hair and eyes.

"Kitty" is from the pen of Warwick Deeping, the famous author of "Sorrell and Son."

RELIGIOUS FEAST IS HELD IN ROME

Solemn Masses of Thanksgiving Observed in Some of Italy's Beautiful Churches

ROME, July 16.—The Feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, whose origin dates back to between 1376 and 1386 A.D., was celebrated this morning with solemn masses of thanksgiving in all the churches of the Carmelite Order in Rome.

These include Santa Maria in Traspontina, one of the most beautiful Renaissance structures in Rome, upon which the great architect Bramante, and the sculptor, Bernini, lavished their talent, containing specimens of the art of Raphael and Pinturicchio; Santa Maria della Vittoria (Holy Mary of Victory), which contains Turkish standards taken at the siege of Vienna in 1683; and San Martino ai Monti (St. Martin on the Heights), which is said to date from the time of the Emperor Constantine.

The date of July 16 is chosen for the observance because on that day in 1251, according to the Carmelite tradition, the scapular of the order was given by the Blessed Virgin to St. Simon Stock, that remarkable English monk who founded the Carmelite houses at Oxford and Cambridge, and at the continental universities of Paris and Bologna. He also introduced the use of the Carmelite scapular for laymen. Among the first to adopt it were King Edward II of England and Henry, Duke of Lancaster.

Auction Bidding

North	Dbl.	Pass
East	Pass	Pass

The foundation of informative bidding is the showing of conventional minimum bids. Such being the case, a player, whose partner as Dealer or Second Hand has passed, can look for little high card strength in support of own hand, but may readily find some distributional strength.

In the above hand, if West had been the Dealer, his bid of one Spade might have been over-called with a forcing bid of three Hearts. In such case it would be very nearly an even proposition as to whether that or an informative double would be preferable, but where partner, as Dealer, has passed, there seems to be no doubt but that North's proper procedure is to double informatively.

If South should respond with two Diamonds or two Clubs, then Hearts may be bid, and under such conditions South should realize that North's hand was strong and with any strength whatever would make the Hearts or rebid own hand, as the occasion might demand.

SALIENT POINTS OF THE BIDDING

Contract: South passing, West opens the bidding with one Spade. North has a hand of such a character that although it is very strong it cannot be fully utilized unless a contract can be found wherein South may be able to take one or two tricks in order to lead up to the high cards in North's hand. Accordingly, he doubles informatively and when South makes a responsive bid of two Hearts, he bids four Auction: The bidding is the same as in Contract, except that it stops with South's bid of two Hearts.

THE PLAY

West opens the ten of Clubs. The Dummy going down, the adversaries' hands may be very easily read as to high cards. To have an opening bid, West must have both the King of Hearts and the King of Diamonds, since he has not the King, Jack or ten of Spades. It is also evident that East has the King of Clubs, for had West held this card his preferential opening would have been the Ace of Spades even though he held a Major tenace therein.

While it is unlikely that the ten of Clubs is a singleton, it is just as well to take the first trick with the Ace of Clubs in Dummy. The Ace of Diamonds is now led from Dummy, followed by the two, which Declarer, South, trumps in own hand. A small Heart is now led and the winning finesse taken. Another small Diamond is led from Dummy and trumped by Declarer. A second round of Hearts exhausts adversaries' trumps, and there is left to lose only the King of Clubs and the Ace of Spades, since, after establishing the Jack of Clubs in Dummy, South can trump Dummy's good Queen of Diamonds in order to lead up to the Spade King.

CHAPTER X

The time was when an expert card player could make a good living by working the transatlantic lines, especially if aided by an accomplice or two and perhaps by a cold deck. That was in the days when draw poker was a national institution the rules of which were plously observed, and before irreverent fingers had tampered with its orthodoxy; before the introduction of deuces-wild, deuces-in-the-hole, seven-card peeks and similar destructive notions and practices had degraded a scientific pastime into a mere game of chance. The metamorphosis of this noble recreation into an undignified amusement for morons is a melancholy aftermath of the World War, so its devotees declare. They assert that the appetite for swift action, variety, excitement gemination during a period of high nervous tension is responsible for the outrage and they resent it.

Mr. Everett Himes, who for several years had commuted pretty regularly to Europe at the expense of his fellow travelers, complained bitterly that the meddling of neurotic amateurs had forced him to adopt a new profession, a matter of fact. He hated bridge, competition in the liquor business was keen, so there he had taken to traveling in the interests of a Maiden Lane diamond broker who consistently underaid the market. When the customs authorities became too deeply interested in Mr. Himes' comings and goings—more particularly in his comings—he fell back upon still other lines of endeavor in which he was skilled, such as bookmaking, stock promotions, blackmailing, pool playing. He played a very good game of pool, left-handed, did Mr. Himes, so good, in fact, that he knew exactly how many ease experts there were who could beat him. Rightly-handed, he was almost, but not quite, as skillful, and this unique gift of ambidexterity had stood him in good stead on more than one occasion. In Brussels, for instance, he had challenged the local champion and had practiced assiduously in a public hall, wielding his cue in the ordinary manner and covering all angles saint him. On the evening of the match he had dismayed his opponent, and his audience as well, by playing left-handed. For them it had been a disagreeable experience and had resulted in strong feelings of anti-Americanism.

At the time of our introduction Mr. Himes was in New York and for a reason best known to himself he had interrupted his regular transatlantic trips and for the moment he was avoiding Maiden Lane as if it were under quarantine. On this day he was entertaining a lady for luncheon at his hotel; she was a middle-aged, florid, buxomyant woman who showed traces of considerable good looks. She was, by the name of Stevens, but Himes addressed her familiarly as Esther.

"They might had finished their luncheon and the nearby tables were deserted, Mrs. Stevens said:

"Thanks for the whoopee, Everett, now you kin get down to the dirty work. You didn't ask me here out of pop-eyed admiration, I bet your mind, if such there be?"

Himes grinned amiably. "All business, eh? Only one thing on your mind, Esther?"

"They might be better and they might be worse. I manage to get by."

"Would you be interested in a quick easy proposition?"

"Would a dork swim?" Mrs. Stevens retorted. Then, she added cautiously: "But no diamonds. Everett; I never got anything out of an honest man yet. I'll wear em, but I don't smuggle em."

"I'll put you so you can buy some and pay the duty. How's that so-called piece of yours?"

"Who? Mona?"

"Have you got more than one?"

"She's all right. Why?"

"Doing anything?"

"No, a little shoplifting here and there. She was posing for a while. Don, I tring to get her in pictures."

"Pretty as ever, is she?"

"She's got it on a lot of those picture girls, but—Lord, you can't get a twelfth in the shadow. Most of them have moved out to Hollywood anyhow. If Mona was lighted right she'd screen fine."

"Can she act?"

Mrs. Stevens smiled. "She can cry. She's cried us into room and board for two years now. The art racket started off good, and it used to be made to order—dirt, dressing and everything—but illustrators are a cheap gang. One fellow fell for her but when I put the bee to him he lit a flea. He squawked from here to Frisco and that killed it."

"Funny I never got into the motion picture game, I guess I murered medituelly. I'd have mopped up. Same with the liquor business. Now the foreigners have got 'em both corned."

After a moment the woman inquired: "Well, what's the new deal, tall, and where do I head in?"

"I don't know until I have Mona in the double-o. She's got to look pretty."

"Say! She doesn't look a day over fifteen."

"Too young!"

"Well, eighteen." Mrs. Stevens said in an effort to compromise.

"I've got a set-up," Himes declared. "Honest, Esther, it's soft."

"Hum-m! I suppose its so soft you'll insert the big end."

"Well, it's coming to me."

"Yes? I've heard of these soft set-ups. Nothing doing, Himsy. If you need me to close your deal the money will have to be cut three ways."

"There you go, before you know what its all about."

"Business is business."

"All right, divide. There's enough in it for everybody if it's handled right. I got the idea on my last trip over and I worked it out later in Paris. On the way across I met a Jane from the corn belt, a terrible rag but out to see the world understand? A born biker and didn't know it. Well, she tried to make me," the speaker smiled bleakly, "and she spilled about all she knew. It didn't take long. She's a painter, or something, and she's taking a flat at the expense of an old man who loves arts."

"Ah-h! I see the dawn."

"She met his son at Eastern—that's a big college or something—and they were so agreeable to each other that—the old man sent her abroad to do over the Louvre. She intends to take two years at it."

"Is that all she came out with?"

"Was something of her in Paris—helped her get set—and again on my way back from Holland. We were buddies by that time. Now then, here's the punch: papa is a Chinaman!"

"That's new slang to me," confessed Himes' listener. "What's a Chinaman?"

"I'm talking pure English. He's a Chink a yeckamus! And he's lousy with coin."

"Who? Which papa? The boy?"

"Both of em."

"Stop one of 'em, Himsy. You've been sleeping on your hip in some laundry."

"Yeah? Well, I'm telling you. Here's a proposition, as wide open as a gate. It's Lee Ying."

"Lee Ying?"

"Nobody else. He's the richest Oriental in the country and his heir is wild about white girls."

"They're all wild about white girls," Mrs. Stevens declared with a curt of her lip. "But what alls you, Himsy? Do you think Mona and I are out to lay China boys? When we get that few we'll work the Oriental dance halls. And we won't call you in on it, either. Now I know you've been cooking on a peanut long."

"Listen, sister, you've got a peanut mind. You always were a dumb ox."

"I don't see——"

"Of course, you don't see."

"—and I can't take a chance with Mona. Why, I'm the only mother she's got and she's as dear to me as—"

"Don't get throaty, Esther, or you'll have me bawling too. Mona will be sister than wheat. If you'll get off the air for a minute and stand by for slation announcements I'll tell you what it's all about."

"The motherly Mrs. Stevens agreed to this. "All right. I never lost anything by listening. Spread your hand."

For fully an hour the two talked with their heads together and it was plain that the woman was deeply interested.

(To Be Continued)

"Two mfm were making their first trip to America. On the first night out the liner pitched like a cork on the big wave.

One of the travelers, about to retire, felt his head just getting into bed, and was astonished to notice that he were a woman's frilly nightgown and had a lace and ribbon crimmed boudoir cap on his head.

"For Heaven's sake, man," he gasped, "what's the idea?"

"Well," said his friend, "don't you know the rule? In case of disaster, women and children first."

U.S. SUBMARINE NOW CHARTERED

President Hoover Approves Request of Polar Party Agents for Use of Craft

WASHINGTON, July 16.—A battered and discarded submarine of unwanted History now has the opportunity of blazing a new path of adventure over the top of the world.

President Hoover has given his approval for the Shipping Board to charter the decommissioned submarine O-12 to agents of the Arctic exploration party being assembled by Sir Hubert Wilkins. The craft will be 31 a year.

Soon the old ship will leave the dock channels of the Philadelphia navy yard for Bridgeport, Conn., where it will be remodeled for the proposed 2,000-mile trip. Last Summer through ice of the North Pole region.

The O-12, launched in 1917, was first commissioned in October, 1918, too late for war service. Later the vessel saw six years of active service, but was decommissioned in 1924.

One hundred and twenty-five feet long, with a width of more than sixteen feet, the 1,000 horsepower submarine has carried a crew of personnel of thirty-one. The original displacement is 485 tons, and the submerged displacement 566 tons.

The vessel virtually will be rebuilt, fitted with sleeping quarters for boring through ice fifty feet thick, and equipped with a balloon for air observation. It also is to be provided with both radio and television apparatus. The submarine is to be topped with a trolley arm to grate the ice above it as it moves along, forcing the ship to the surface upon reaching thin ice.

In the proposed trip from Spitzbergen to Alaska, which is expected to continue two months, Wilkins says that not only will meteorological observations be attempted in places where they never have been recorded, but efforts will be made to find a permanent base for observation some 700 miles northeast of Point Barrow.

BRIAND PLAN MEETS FAVOR

Discussion of Project for Union of European States at Geneva Meeting Seems Assured

RESERVATIONS ARE MADE IN REPLIES

By PAUL SCOTT MOWRER
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

PARIS, July 16.—The Briand project for a European union has scored a striking initial success. All the European Governments except Great Britain, Hungary, Bulgaria, Japanists and Albania have now replied, and the Pan-European Conference at Geneva in September to discuss details seems a certainty.

However, there are a good many reservations in connection with Aristide Briand's concrete suggestions and whether the Union, if actually formed, will realy be important is still a question.

In any case, all seem to be agreed regarding the suitability of holding a conference. All agree that the Union must in no respect be opposed to the League of Nations or to other groups or continents. All agree that its members must be equal and sovereign, though Holland points out that not much progress can be made unless the states are willing to cede a portion of their sovereignty. The majority emphasize that the union will defeat its own purpose unless it includes all the European states, not merely some of them.

Germany, Italy and Denmark want to admit Soviet Russia and perhaps Turkey. Greece also favors Turkey.

COLONIAL RELATIONS

Countries with colonies are careful to specify the union must be so conceived that it will not hurt their colonial relations and Spain makes a similar reservation regarding Ibe relations with Latin America.

M. Briand's suggestion was for an annual conference, a permanent secretariat and a permanent political committee. Most of the replies assert that an annual conference, or possibly a secretariat would be sufficient for the moment.

M. Briand argued that the settlement of political differences on a basis of arbitration and security agreements should precede economic readjustments. A good many of the replies, for example those of Germany, Rumania, Holland and Norway, think this is not essential, though Germany and Lithuania both imply that a revision of the present frontiers is essential to any permanent European understanding, while Denmark and Italy think that disarmament is the primordial condition.

In these circumstances, the Geneva debate promises to settle more much around the old issues of arbitration, security and disarmament prior to any serious economic discussion.

WINNIPEG MAN STATES "SARGON IS MARVELOUS"

Friends Stop Him on Street and Comment on His Wonderful Improvement

"When a man has been medicine after medicine without getting any relief and at last finds something that brings back the old health, it makes a well man out of him. It's time for him to talk for the benefit of others—and that's the way I feel about this new Sargon," declared Arthur Bastien, well-known resident of 71 Talbot Street, Elmwood, Winnipeg.

"People who know me know that I'm not given to making idle statements, but I can honestly say I wouldn't have believed there was a medicine made that could produce such a great change in my human as Sargon has in me!

"My health had been gradually breaking down for the past several years and I'd gotten to the point where I felt tired and worn-out all the time. I didn't even have any desire for food, and due to my poor elimination, I suffered from blood poisoning which no laxative seemed to be able to correct. My nerves became affected: I didn't sleep and the least little thing seemed to irritate me.

I tried as many different medicines without getting any better. I'd just about come to the conclusion they were all 'jokes' when someone suggested this new Sargon. The way it brought back my health and strength was nothing short of marvellous! I've had any number of people stop me on the street and comment on how much better I'm looking, and if I look as hale and hearty as I feel, it's no wonder everybody notices it. My appetite couldn't be any better; my nerves are as good as any man's, and as I told a friend of mine the other day, I sleep like a top for eight or ten hours every night.

"I consider the Sargon Soft Mass Pills a valuable part of the treatment for ridding the system of toxic poisons and bringing the bowels well regulated. They act just like nature itself and I hardly know I'd even taken them. After all these two great medicines have done for me, I'm only too glad to give them both my heartiest recommendation."

Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Cut Drug Stores and in New Westminster from the Bews Drug Co. (Adv.)

Peter Is Given a Scare

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Most people like a little joke,
But some, alas, it doth provoke.
—Jerry Muskrat.

Starmow the Mole abruptly bade Peter Rabbit good bye and disappeared into one of his numerous tunnels. He had remained out an unusually long time for Starmow. Perhaps it was because he had an unusually big worm. He needed it. Starmow has an unusually big appetite. You know, food makes what is called energy. The more energy one uses the more food is needed to make new energy. The members of the Mole family are full of energy. Such workers as they are! And it isn't easy work. No, indeed. It is easy work. It is hard work. Digging is always hard work and the Moles are the greatest diggers of any kind I know. They eat in order to dig and they dig in order to eat; for it is to find the worms that much of their digging is done.

After Starmow had disappeared, Peter sat close to the edge of the bank of the Smiling Pool and back to it. It was very warm. Peter began to grow sleepy. It was very nice over there by the Smiling Pool; it was very pleasant. Over in the alders, Redwing the Blackbird was singing. Peter always did like to hear Redwing sing. In the Smiling Pool itself some of the Frog folk were singing now and then. Over on the far side of the Smiling Pool Grandfather Frog was saying "Chug-a-rum! Chug-a-rum! Chug-a-rum!" in a great deep voice.

Peter's eyes kept shutting. Then he would open them with a start, only to close them again. In a little while Peter was actually asleep. Of course it was a very light sleep, for Peter is far too wise to ever sleep heavily. Jerry Muskrat came swimming along with nothing in particular to do. He looked up and saw Peter sitting on the bank. Jerry stopped swimming and floated for a few minutes, looking very hard at Peter. Then, Jerry grinned. Jerry more he began to swim. He swam until he was just back of where Peter lay. He looked up at Peter's back. Then he grinned once more. What do you think he did then? He dived, and as he did so he brought his tail down hard on the water. When that tail slapped the water it made a sudden sharp noise. Peter's eyes flew open. At the same time he came to life in other ways. He bounded away, liperty-liperty-liperty-lip, and was well out in the Green Meadows before he really knew what he was doing. All he knew was that he had been frightened by a sudden noise. Now he stopped and looked all around. He looked back toward the Smiling Pool. Nowhere could he see anything that was cause for fright.

He hesitated for a few minutes. Then very slowly he began to make his way back toward the Smiling Pool. Every few steps he would stop to sit up, look and listen. So at last he got back to the place where he had been sitting. He looked all over the Smiling Pool. It was as peaceful as it had been before he dozed off. Apparently there was nothing and there was no one to account for the sound that had startled Peter.

"I must have dreamed it," thought Peter. "That's it. I dreamed it. That's what comes of doing off in broad daylight."

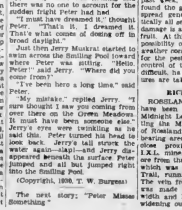
Just then Jerry Muskrat started to swim across the Smiling Pool toward where Peter was sitting. "Hello, Peter!" said Jerry. "Where did you come from?"

"I've been here a long time," said Peter.

"My mistake," replied Jerry. "I must have I saw you coming from over there on the Green Meadows. It must have been someone else." Jerry's eyes were twinkling as he said this. Peter turned his head to look back. Jerry's tail struck the water again—slap!—and Jerry disappeared beneath the surface. Peter jumped and all but jumped right into the Smiling Pool.

(Copyright, 1930, T. W. Burgess)

The next story: "Peter Misses Something."



He looked up and saw Peter sitting on the bank.

News and Notes of the Interior

EARL OF STAIR IMPRESSED

TRAIL—The Earl of Stair and Lady Stair were much impressed when they visited the dairy farm of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada, Limited, at Warfield, in company with Thomas Fennel, farms manager and James Buchanan, smelter superintendent of the company. The earl is one of the most noted breeders of Ayrshire cattle in Scotland. A number of the large Ayrshire herd at Warfield were recently imported from his estates at Stranraer, Scotland.

CLOSING ONE STATION

NEW DENVER—At a meeting here of New Denver and Silverton citizens with C. A. Cotterill, general superintendent for the Canadian Pacific Railway in British Columbia, an agreement was reached whereby the railway company will abandon its agency at Silverton and close the agent at New Denver. It was originally the railways intention to close both stations, but strong protests were made by New Denver and Silverton Boards of Trade and the move was halted. The Silverton agent will look after the business of both places in the future.

APHIS HURTS ORCHARDS

TRONSON—A widespread infestation of orchards by green apple aphis is reported by R. H. Evans, assistant district horticulturist. In checking up the districts from Okanagan Centre south to Oliver last week, Mr. Evans says he has found the green aphis of the apple spread generally throughout practically all sections. In odd orchards damage is already being done to the fruit. At this time there appears to be possibility of a severe infestation if weather conditions remain favorable for the pest. At the present stage of growth of the aphis seems to be difficult, its states, if prompt measures are taken by the growers.

RICH ORE FOUND

ROSSLAND—Encouraging results have been obtained by the Midnight Leasing Syndicate, operating the Midnight Mine just east of Rossland in the high grade gold bearing area of Cit-E Mountain, in close proximity to the famous LXL mine, a shipment of ore from this "strike" made recently, which was sent to the smelter at Trail, running $5,000 to the ton. The vein from which the shipment was made is about two feet in width and has every indication of widening out.

MOLYBDENUM MINE

ALICE ARM—Latest advices received yesterday from the Tidewater Molybdenum property of Alice Arm being as successfully developed by the Dalhousie Mining Company, state that the tunnel being driven on the ore body carries a full face of ore. The exceedingly rich ore values encountered last week are also being maintained. The success being attained has exceeded the hopes of the Dalhousie Company, and if the present success is maintained it will not be very long before plans will be made for the installation of a concentrating mill.

JUDGE ENDS RADIO CASE IN SEATTLE

Station KJR Will Keep Channel Until Autumn, When E. O. Sykes Will Make Report

DEALERS TUNE N.B.S. STATION FOR TONE

SEATTLE, July 16.—With pages of testimony and reams of feet letters attesting the popularity of Seattle's two battling radio stations, KJR and KOMO, Federal Judge Eugene O. Sykes, who has conducted the radio hearing on the two station-license petitions for a clear channel, today was on his way to Los Angeles.

His recommendation to the Federal Radio Commission at the capital regarding awarding of the 970-kilocycle band will not be made until next Fall.

Meanwhile KJR is to keep the covered wave length.

The station at yesterday's closing session of the hearing exhibited 12,715 affidavits from listeners, including those from mayors of twelve Washington cities, sixteen clergymen, and several Seattle councilmen. KOMO introduced more than 24,000 letters.

John Cope, chief engineer at KJR, testified under cross-examination that the station's modulation only averaged 40 per cent. He admitted there had been breakdowns. Several radio dealers testified that when they sold radio sets they always tuned in on KJR so that the prospective buyers would get "good tone and modulation."

In Police Courts

In the Provincial police court, yesterday, William Metcalf, charged with driving to the common danger, was remanded for one week.

There was a clean sheet in the city police court.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

HOW TO KEEP THE COLON CLEAN

If you would avoid the many troubles which originate from constipation you should begin immediately to keep your colon clean. Learn how to life so that your bowels move at least twice a day. Once the habits of healthful bowel eliminations are establishing they endure, provided the patient pays correctly. It is not difficult to train your bowels to act naturally, and you save yourself a lot of worry and illness. Once your colon functions normally, you will use that heavy feeling and feel gloriously alive.

Those who are drowsy when they should be wide awake are being poisoned slowly by bowel contents which have stayed in the body longer than they should.

The first habit to establish is to go to the toilet regularly at definite times and stay there for at least five minutes. It is a great mistake to wait until you have to go. If you do not set aside a definite time in the morning and evening, something else is sure to avert your attention, and before you know it the bowels will become accustomed to their additional load and will fail to notify you.

In nearly every case of habitual constipation these nerves become less sensitive and the patient may not be aware of his condition.

The second good habit to form is to eat enough of the foods which contain cellulose to provide the bowels with roughage. At least two large raw salads and several non-starchy vegetables should be used each day, and it is often a good plan to eat a little fruit just before bedtime, such as an apple or an orange or some fresh apricots. One who lives entirely on concentrated foods which do not have the bulk contained in vegetables and fruits invariably is constipated. You have to give the bowels something to do if you expect them to work.

Another good habit to form is to drink plenty of water. This tends to keep the waste moist so that they function more smoothly. A good plan is to take a drink of water when you first awaken in the morning, then drink some water in the middle of the morning, and in the middle of the afternoon. Try to drink at least six or eight glasses during the day. This, in itself, often brings speedy relief.

Another good habit to form and possible the most important of all for those who do not get much daily exercise is to develop the abdominal muscles. If the abdominal muscles are weak, you cannot expect them to do their part in assisting the colon. If they are weak it is usually an indication that the entire circulation in the abdomen is poor and needs improving. One who is constipated should take exercises for developing the abdominal muscles at least twice a day until they become strong and firm.

If you learn how to keep your colon clean now before it is too late you may avoid the serious consequences of constipation and at the same time be rewarded with a feeling of better health than you have ever known before.

"I wish you would pay a little attention to what I am saying," roared the exasperated barrister to a stubborn witness.

"Well," was the calm reply, "I'm paying as little as I can."

Award Made of $400 For Shock Received

Judgment awarding $400 damages to the plaintiff was handed down in County Court, by Judge Lampman, in the action brought by Charles de Macedo against Olive Heisterman.

Plaintiff alleged that on November 15, he had been knocked off a bicycle which he was riding, when a car driven by the defendant bumped the rear of the bicycle. Damages were claimed for the shock inflicted and its results.

"It is very difficult to assess with any degree of exactitude the damages suffered by the, 'plaintiff,' the judgment observes, "as the damage consists largely of impairment of his physical condition, with special disturbance of his nervous system." The judgment goes on to remark that an ordinary man might not have suffered any damage under the circumstances, but that did not effect the claim of the plaintiff, as the damage done depended largely on the constitution and state of health of the person suffering it.

BALLADS OF BUNBRAY

Back where the mem'ry of any man
To the contrary runneth not,
Even the rainbows flash
Granted the Dodgers were not so hot.
They couldn't share in a series' pot,
Victory shied from the Brooklyn boys,
But what of the 1930 pest?
Where are the Dolorous Dodgers now?

Year upon year just an also-ran.
Minus a Jackson, a Frisch, an Ott,
A club eternally on the pan.
Rating a second division slot.
The worst of it was the best they got,
And ne'er a break did the fates allow
But what of today's 1x1 all a plan?
Where are the Dolorous Dodgers now?

Once but an oddly assorted clan.
An idle podrida—lousy lot—
Now they're a Wright to be in the van.
(Pardon the pun, but 'tis true, eh, wot?)
They've got what Robbie might call "relot";
Vance is an ace and the Babe's a wow!
Infield as tight as a canny Scot—
Where are the Dolorous Dodgers now?

L'envoi
Prince, tell the experts who voice the cry
That the royal Robins are cure to bow
Ere this season's end to a Giant, ewe,
Where are the Dolorous Dodgers now?

MANDELL AND SINGER

Singer will have youth tonight—youth and possibly greater stamina and greater speed after the first six or seven rounds.

But there is one feature Singer's supporters will have to watch. Sammy Mandell was a stout-hearted competitor when he was a schoolboy in Rockford, Ill. He proved this at football and basketball before he took up boxing. He proved it again when he swamped all over Jimmy McLarnin in New York some two years ago. If he was afraid of the McLarnin volley he failed to show it. It may be that Singer, a fine possibility, has improved his competitive edge. If he hasn't he will need a big margin in skill, speed, strength and stamina.

Mandell may be all through, ready to be taken by the first good man that comes along. But the chances are he still has enough left to carry at least an even chance. He is still crafty. He is still game and he knows his stuff. Singer has his big shot, but while good he has yet to prove that he is another Leonard of which there have not been so many when you figure it all up.

THE CRUCIAL SPOT

The crucial spot in July is sometime overplayed in the way of importance. But if the Cubs are not in a crucial spot now there is no such vegetable growing in the garden of sport.

They are in the midst of a ten-game double series with the Dodgers and Giants, the club just in front of them and the club just back of them. This double series may not decide any pennant, but ten important games in eight days can mean a lot when the final summing up arrives.

In the five Brooklyn-Chicago games each club faces its big chance to lose the big bomb that will have wrecking results. Some years ago the Pirates came to New York with the pennant as good as won. They were seven or eight games ahead. They met the Giants in a six-game series and dropped every contest. That explosion left nothing but scattered debris, and the Giants went on to win in an easy-going gallop.

These are the three teams that will decide the National League pennant race for 1930. Brooklyn has been playing the most consistent ball up to date, and it now remains to be seen how your Uncle Wilbert Robinson's young men can face one of the toughest spots in the long parade against the club that won a year ago and is still laughing around the old neighborhood with a lot of fig-leaf.

No pitching staff has an easy time in suppressing Stephenson, Wilson and Cuyler, the Cub outfield. When it comes to manipulating the old ash furniture day by day there is the better outfit in the trade.

"I'll tell you," writes one of the guys who played in the recent open, "what happened to most of us. In my own case I was even with my through the first and second rounds as I passed the fourteenth hole. That, as you know, was the hardest stretch of the course. But on each round the ball brought on a half-ounce where it couldn't hit a shot. I know this affected many others in the same way. This is taking no credit from Cooper, as it is all part of the game. He had the stamina to carry on through."

There's no argument about the large number who faltered down the stretch each day in the heat. Many of them were looking at the ball through black spots dancing before their eyes—the dance of impending despair.

There is a fallacious belief that condition means little in golf. On the contrary, it happens to be a game that demands both physical and mental stamina if one is to keep going through seventy-two holes of a championship. And it involves the state of one's nervous system for that particular week.

DISTRACTING

He was playing on a South Coast course. On green after green he took four or more putts, and blamed everybody for moving as he played his shot. Finally, on the eighteenth green, he was left with a nine-inch putt to save the match. Everybody in the vicinity of the green stood like statues as he made his putt—and missed! "Hang it!" he stormed. "How the devil can anyone putt with all these confounded ships moving up and down the Channel?"

SONS OF CANADA RALLY AND DOWN EAGLES, 11 TO 6

Canadians Come From Behind 5-2 Score in Sixth Inning and Defeat Tribe in Fine Game

EAGLES WERE GOOD FOR FIVE INNINGS

Elks	6	6	.500
Jokers	7	7	.500
Eagles	3	12	.200

Next game, tomorrow, Elks vs. Jokers.

Rallies in the sixth and seventh innings, during which they scored four and five runs respectively, carried the Sons of Canada through to an 11-6 victory over the Eagles at the Royal Athletic Park last night. The victory placed the Canadians well out in front in the race for the Senior Amateur Baseball League pennant.

For five innings the feathered tribe played good ball and looked as if they were going to spring their second straight upset by numbering the Sons of Canada as their victims. But in the sixth, somewhat the kryptonic cushion for the tribe, led the willow smashers with three hits out of as many trips to the plate.

In the men's doubles McCallum and Gordon, Corfield and Edwards, and Isaacs and Campbell all came through with easy wins. PILOT FINDS MAN LOST NEAR VERNON

Seaplane From Salmon Arm Reports Dropping Food to A. R. Smith—Long Search Ended

VANCOUVER, July 16.—A. R. Smith, contractor for an irrigation dam at Hedley, near Vernon, in the Okanagan Valley, lost in the forest in the Aberdeen Lake district since last Sunday, has been located by the pilot of a seaplane, according to information received over long distance telephone here tonight.

Frantic search by forty men for Smith ended this afternoon when the seaplane, which had taken off from Salmon Arm earlier in the day in an attempt to locate the contractor, returned late this afternoon and reported that Smith had been sighted and that he had waved his coat to attract the attention of the pilot. Packages of food were dropped to Smith from the seaplane.

Later, the seaplane with camp officials, again took off for the locality where Smith was sighted for the purpose of getting bearings for him.

Mr. Smith left the construction camp on Sunday morning with the intention of fishing in Spock Lake, about four miles distant through the forest. He failed to return and an intensive search for him was instituted Monday morning and continued until today.

A more mellow, generous and delightful spirit than White Horse is not obtainable.

Do you Look for a "Bite" in Whisky?

MANY cheap and inferior whiskies are noted for their "kick" or "bite." A "bite" is the result of adding raw spirit to the blend. Actually a whisky with "bite" is usually much less mature than a whisky with none.

One reason for the world reputation of "White Horse" Whisky is its complete lack of "bite." The rich, creamy body is acquired after many years in the wood. When deep in its maturity and properly "married" White Horse is bottled—ready for the world's approval.

Prices Show Net Gain on New York Exchange After Short Selling Is Halted

NEW YORK, July 16.—Stocks easily rode out a squall of short selling today and the bull faction piloted the market to net gains of 1 to 2 points in a broad list of issues.

Trading, although reduced in volume, was particularly active in the motor and oil shares, led by General Motors, Chrysler and Standards of New Jersey and New York.

Most of the day's net declines seemed to be the result of profit taking, which was particularly noticeable in American Telephone, off 3 1-2 points, after yesterday's movements emboldened the bear crowd, especially in the early and midday dealings.

Industrial favorites displayed a quiet strength and made the best average gain. Dupont, A. M. Byers, American Rolling Mill, Hershey, United Aircraft and Worthington Pump advanced two to three points, while General Electric and Fisser Wheeler rose more than a point.

United States Steel, after dipping nearly 2 points below the previous close, came back to a new high for the recovery at 164 7-8 up 7-8. United States Industrial Alcohol rose nearly 7.

Foreign exchanges were firm. Sterling values moved up nominally, while the Canadian dollar established a small premium.

An irregular flow charted the movement of fixed income securities on the New York Stock Exchange today. It swooned no large spread between the top and bottom in the domestic list, including some of the high grade investment issues, and offered considerably from realizing.

Week-End to See a Rise Says Whitney

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, July 16.—Whitney of Wall Street Financial Bureau says: The market today performed practically in line with expectations to the extent that, after two or three hours of relative strength, we were given the two-hour dip to the low points of the day. This coming at around the noon hour instead of the close obviously eliminates the possibility of any carryover into tomorrow's session which will provide anything like yesterday's buying opportunity but does give us the advantageous start which, I believe, will carry the market upward over the week-end.

The main consideration, then, becomes that we have entered the second portion of the advance which, I believe, will carry the averages up to about 245 in the Dow Jones index; that you are in line for a substantial addition to the profits already assisting in the stocks you bought last Friday, and that those bought on yesterday dip will lose little time in also showing profits, with even a last minute advancement or two made in the first hour today about noon to do the same thing.

Today's news developments practically boil down to The Iron Age statement which constitutes a mild contribution to the August business recovery theory generated here over the last two weeks or so. It is pointed out that the lack of definite trend now being witnessed in steel presages a turn, and that scrap steel brokers have been accumulating material in the belief that the market is at or nearing bottom, and that they are going to be able to get more for their stuff in a little later on. Personally, I believe that Steel experiments will "overhang" the general business recovery to the extent of one quarter or two bad weeks in the next month or so, with possibly a further reduction in the operating rate which could carry it down to a low point of 45 per cent.

Some further decline in wheat, and one or two additional lows in other commodities, will probably be needed to wind up the fifteen month business decline. In the meantime there is certainly little real news with which to justify the present market situation, with the result that I hardly look for any extended advance at the present time, but believe we can have a few more days strength in here.

The bond half the issues pointed out here yesterday made their indicated low points, but where they did not, I think you had better buy them around today's closing prices in the first hour or so tomorrow. To date that would add General Motors under 43, Colorado Fuel under 34, and Pure American Pete under 40.

CURTAILMENT OF CRUDE OIL IS CONTINUED

Output Down to New Low —More Merger Gossip— Continental Can Stockholders Increase

WORLD'S COPPER OUTPUT IS LOWER

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, July 16.—The week's oil statistics are unfavorably bullish. Gasoline inventories were reduced more than 1,750,000 gallons, the largest withdrawal from storage in any week for more than two years. Crude production was also curtailed to a new low, more than 50,000 barrels being deducted from the previous daily average. Crude oil output in all American oil areas is now between 300,000 and 400,000 barrels daily less than in the same week last year. The statistics encouraged that officers have followed the example of the producers in reducing operations to a point where large withdrawals from storage are required from day to day. If these weekly decreases can be maintained until Fall, there should be no general price weakness at that time. Some of the pessimistic elements in the oil business have been prejudiced.

Announcement that the Continental Oil Company has joined the Barnsdall Corporation in the plan to carry the crude oil gasoline price importation and distributing pipe line system now launched in the petroleum industry resulted in the inevitable gossip that a merger may be brewing between the two companies.

Leading of reverse freight for the week ended on July 5 totaled 703,141 cars, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday. Due to the observance of July 4 and the fact that the day following was also observed as a holiday, the total for the week was a decrease of 164,701 cars below the preceding week.

An important change in the future policy of the management was announced by C. M. Keys, president of North American Aviation, Inc., in submitting the half-yearly statement of operations to stockholders. Under the new policy Mr. Keys states, the company will enlarge its controlling and operating functions rather than its investment functions. The report shows the company earned approximately 56 cents a share during the first half of 1930 and that the asset value of the stock was $14.34 a share as of June 30. Of this total value less than 25 per cent represented investments in open market securities.

The number of common stockholders of Continental Can Co. increased 42 per cent in the period covering the last two major stock market breaks, it was revealed yesterday when a check up of the transfer records showed that of July 7 it had a total of 13,225 common stock holders compared with 11,278 on October 5, 1929. The increase during this period is attributed to investment buying in small lots as the largest gains in the number of holders were made in the weeks following the decline of the stock to low price levels.

Sales of Sears Roebuck recently have shown a slight improvement, according to interests close to the company, it is understood. Retail sales at present are running about the same rate as last year, whereas a short time ago gross sales were slightly behind the year's figures. Furthermore the inventory position has been materially improved so that with this result that the company is in a much better position than it has been recently. Incidently, the sharp reduction in prices announced recently should stimulate sales in the latter part of the year. The discontinuance of prepaid freight charges also should be reflected in its earnings during the remainder of 1930.

American Gas & Electric Co. and subsidiaries report output of 97,718,343 kilowatt hours for week ended July 12, a decrease of 9 per cent from like week of 1929.

London-New York cables opened at 486 9-16 against Tuesday's close of 486 1-3. Paris francs, 123.81. Amsterdam 13.99. Italy 92.875, Berlin 20.985.

Reduction of 126,000 barrels in daily production of oil in Texas fields recommended by operators of state at meeting in Fort Worth.

Western Electric Co. sales for six months ended June 30 were $201,820,000 against $194,894,000 in like 1929 period, an increase of 3 1-2 per cent.

North American Aviation first six months earnings 47 cents a share on 2,100,000 shares against 56 cents on 1,500,000 shares in first half of 1929.

World's copper output in June, 140,356 short tons against 148,788 in May and 174,548 in June, 1929, according to American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

MARKET REACTION NOT UNEXPECTED

Tendency Accepted Psychologically —Trading Remains Steady at Reduced Level

(Branson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, July 16.—The reactionary tendency of the market in the last two sessions was perhaps not unexpected, and appears to be accepted psychologically, as there is no apparent disinclination for the downward trend to get out of hand. For 1-2-3 of the day, following the initial rush of trading, the market remained steady at a reduced level. At the same time, however, there was noticeable firmness in the oil shares, buying same being induced by the reduction in crude oil output, further prorating in Oklahoma, and the effect that would appear to be reduced refinery runs. U.A.P. also was a strong feature during the whole session, based on expectations of a very favorable report of earnings for the second quarter.

In the final hour the list broke away from its reduced level, recovering in most cases to yesterday's close, and in a few cases registering net gains of about 1 and 2 points, especially in the oils, steels and motors. In this utilities, prices were about even. The optimism was generally occasioned by the cheerful tone of Iron Age weekly comment, the pointing out that although automobile plants have shut down for a while, it is expected they will resume operations for materials by August, and that on the whole the trade is doing the best that it is expecting bottom.

In view of the improved recovery in prices today we believe it is the better part of wisdom to continue operations from the buying side, and to take advantage of a normal reaction to add to long positions.

Calgary Oil News

(Miller, Dent & Co. Ltd.)

Calimont No. 7 on the Dalhousie lease, of the Calgary Syndicate, is scheduled to resume drilling from the top of the lime last night, according to J. C. Dallas, managing director. The hole is ten feet in the formation. Calimont No. 4 flip the same area was drilling needle at 4,465 feet, though to be below the Dalhousie sands. Mr. Dallas stated that the first of the Lea-Verne separators designed to cope with the large flow of gas at No. 2 was being installed. The test on the pair will probably start in a few days. "If these are not adequate, we shall get some more," Mr. Dallas said.

Calmont No. 1 southwest of the Okalta group in Central Turner Valley is drilling ahead, and is anticipating production momentarily. The well had reached 270 feet in the lime at 5,727 feet.

Okalta No. 1 has overcome difficulties encountered when a piece of the underreaming equipment was lost, and is cleaning the well prior to cementing casing at the top of the lime, stated Fred Whitaker, secretary treasurer, last night. Okalta No. 3 is making good headway on what is thought to be the last lap to production. The bit yesterday was drilling 101 feet in the lime at 4,434 feet. Okalta No. 1 was circulating hot oil to dissolve an ice bridge, which is obstructing production.

Menalta No. 3, in the Red Coulee, is stated to be preparing to drill into the Hills sands, the formation from which Cosmos No. 1 and neighboring producers are obtaining crude. The Burbank sands were found to yield gas and water and they were proceeded to seal off that flow before continuing deeper. The well is located half a mile east of the Rice Radigan producer, Minerle, in the Mercury group of Southern Turner Valley, has completed cementing casing at 4,661 feet, state field advices. The crew is waiting for necessary time for cement to dry, which is a week or ten days. It is thought this well is nearing the bottom of the lower Kootenay. The Kootenay coal seam was cut at 2,800 feet.

Bailing of circulating fluid was proceeding yesterday at Alberta No. 3 "A" and Sterling Pacific, Turner Valley, according to field advices. Both wells have been cleaned with tools following shots of nitroglycerine. It was expected that some idea of producing possibilities would be known by the end of the week.

Mercury No. 5 resumed drilling yesterday after successfully getting tool tools according to field officials. The well was nearing the 4,000-mark.

Skyline No. 13 Central Turner Valley was still cleaning with tools in the hole following a shot of nitroglycerine. It was reported yesterday.

COPPER INDUSTRY IS UNDER REVIEW

Anaconda Chairman Says Production Rapidly Coming Into Line With Consumption

(Mehaffey, Ross & Co., Ltd.)

John D. Ryan, chairman of the Anaconda Copper Mining Co. asked as to conditions in the copper industry, said: "In recent months the industry has been working out about the copper industry, and considerable misunderstanding and confusion regarding the state of business has arisen. It is our opinion that in volume the copper business is running at a somewhat better rate, as compared with the average of 1929 and the previous year than most basic industries, and that the current rate of consumption of copper compares favorably with that of any other period excluding the years of 1928 and 1929.

We believe the best standard of comparison available is provided by the actual shipment of fabricated products from the manufacturing plants of the Anaconda Company direct to the consumption market.

For the five months completed this year these shipments have equaled 79 per cent of the average shipments for 1928 period. They are 88 1-2 per cent of 1929 and 97 1-2 per cent of average shipments for 1926, 1927 and 1928 combined, when both production and consumption exceeded any previous like period in the industry.

Metal production is coming into line with consumption, and no branch of the industry should expend more quickly to share more profitably in a general resumption of good business than copper.

While stocks of the metal, according to statistics, are somewhat larger than in normal times, there are much smaller stocks than normal in consumers' hands. Consumers do not hold their usual stocks in a time of declining prices, and producers now hold virtually all of the available copper stocks. In view of pickup of business consumers will take their normal stocks and a large part of supply that appears visible in these statistics will quickly be absorbed."

Sales Manager of Canadian Marconi Company, Montreal, Outlines Marconi Policy in Interview

R. M. BROPHY

In an interview yesterday Mr. R. M. Brophy, sales manager of the Canadian Marconi Company, outlined the purpose of his extended trip across Canada. Mr. Brophy left Montreal on June 21, and is en route across the Dominion, calling on Marconi distributors and investigating local radio trade conditions.

"The entire Marconi organization," Mr. Brophy stated, "is convinced that the New Marconi Radio this year will far exceed all past sales records for Marconi products. This conviction is based upon many new outstanding features in the engineering and merchandising plans of the Marconi Company, and due to the enthusiasm of the Marconi distributors I have called on since far. The most outstanding of these features is undoubtedly the new Marconi plant at Mount Royal, about twenty minutes drive from Montreal. This factory has just been completed, and is the most modern radio plant in Canada equipped with the very latest scientific apparatus for manufacturing the New Marconi Radio, and wireless devices and apparatus for commercial purposes. In fact, the Canadian Marconi Company is the only Canadian radio company having engineering, research, testing and production departments all under one roof. Production of the New Marconi Radio is already in full swing, and we are producing 200 sets a day—one an every thirty minutes." Mr. Brophy predicts that the new plant, manned with Canadian workers, will reduce popular priced sets to a minimum.

Mr. Brophy stated further, "The New Marconi 1929 Radio exemplifies the result of our recent radio marketing experiments. To determine radio buying motives we directly questioned 547 radio retailers across Canada. Results showed that, of all radio buying motives, tone, appearance and selectivity are the strongest.

"Two unique tests have already greatly stimulated public interest in the New Marconi Radio. The first test took place last April in the circular suite of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, Montreal, when we asked a picked group of famous Canadian interior decorators to vote on the new Marconi cabinets as to correctness of design. The second test was equally as important. We invited some of Canada's most celebrated musicians to judge the tone qualities of the New Marconi Radio, in the Elsenheim suite of the Royal York Hotel, Toronto. In both cases the New Marconi Radio was judged supreme."

COPPER PRICES ARE REDUCED SLIGHTLY

NEW YORK, July 16.—Custom smelters today reduced the price of domestic copper to 11 1-4 cents a pound delivered, a reduction of 1-4-cent from the previous level and the lowest price the metal has sold in the domestic market since 1921.

Large producers, last week, continued to hold copper at the 11 1-2-cent price. There was no change in the foreign price of 11.60 cents a pound, c.i.f. European base ports. Foreign sales of copper during the forenoon today amounted to 2,300,000 pounds and yesterday totaled 3,500,000 pounds.

Find Frog Alive After Two Years In Cement Wall

SAN DIMAS, Cal., July 16 — Workmen chiselling out concrete a foot thick in remodelling the swimming pool at the Vonriches School, south of here, reported they found a live frog imbedded in the hardest mass of cement which was laid two years ago.

The frog hopped away under his own power, they say. Its body was somewhat lackadaisical and greyish in color, but it was lively and seemed to be in good health.

F. KRALY DIES; HURT LAST YEAR

Popular Nanaimo Youth Succumbs After Lingering in Hospital for Months

NANAIMO, July 16—The death occurred in the Nanaimo Hospital last night, at the age of twenty-three years, of Frank Kraly, a well-known and popular Nanaimo boy. Born in Germany, he spent practically all of his life in Nanaimo. On June 19, 1929, he was injured in the Robert Dollar camp at Deep Bay, while working as a chokersetter, receiving a badly fractured pelvis and internal injuries, and had been in the hospital ever since. He is survived by four brothers, Vincent, Adolph, Anthony and Joseph, and three sisters, Mrs. W. Winkleman and the Misses Annie and Effie, all of Nanaimo.

The remains repose at the D. J. Jenkins Parlors, pending instructions from Coroner Hirkling.

SHIRLEY SCHOOL MEETING HELD

SHIRLEY, July 14—The annual school meeting was held last Saturday evening, with rather a small attendance. Mr. Thomas E. Crom was chairman, Trustee Buntain of Arden and Auditor Mrs. M. A. Clark were both re-elected to their respective offices for another term.

The trustees have made many improvements to the inside of the schoolhouse during this year, papering, kalsomining and walnscoting the walls, while the Shirley Women's Institute paid for the paint, and painting of outside and roof.

The inspector's report was quite plain.

satisfactory and the morale of the school good.

A letter was read from the Shirley Women's Institute asking the trustees to include in their estimates for the year the sum of $15 for a monthly inspection, health talk, dental advice, etc., for the school children, instead of the yearly inspection which is all the Government undertakes at present. This amount is the share which Shirley School would require to raise to insure this service in conjunction with Sooke and North Sooke under a scheme sponsored by the Sooke Health District Rural Nursing Association. Trustees Mrs. H. J. Kirby, F. H. Cassidy and E. T. Arden were all opposed to it and the proposition was turned down. An assessment of $200 was made for the ensuing year.

NEW CITY PLAN FOR COURTENAY

Council Gives Approval of Scheme of Town Planning Commission

COURTENAY, July 16—A comprehensive plan of the city to be followed for future development, is to be adopted. This was the decision of the City Council sitting as a committee of the whole, together with the Town Planning Commission recently.

The plan will not only embrace the city area, but will take care of outside subdivisions and establish a definite street grade besides providing for repairing the city. The cost of approximately $4,000, it is proposed to provide by means of a debenture issue to be authorized by a plebiscite. J. A. Walker is to undertake the work of the new plan.

NANAIMO PLAN FOR DAM READY

Report and Data Laid Before Water Board—Will Employ Taxpayers

NANAIMO, July 16—The City Council following the regular meeting went into committee to hear reports of Engineer Mucklestone on conditions at the site of the new dam. The engineer reported that everything was in readiness for the calling of tenders and yesterday Mayor Hall and the engineer went to Victoria to lay the plans of the dam before the Provincial Water Control Board for its approval, so that, should there be no objection from the board, and none is anticipated, tenders will be called for at once.

Following is the section of the agreement between the contractor and the city in regard to labor:

"The contractor agrees that, in employing labor, whether skilled or otherwise he will give preference, other things being equal, to residents and taxpayers of the city of Nanaimo and users of water from the corporation system."

The contractor agrees that he will pay all workmen, mechanics artisans and laborers employed on the work, the wages and remuneration in the city of Nanaimo for each trade or occupation. He further undertakes not to employ Asiatics.

"The Conservative regime had been in office for a reliable system of national employment bureaus throughout the Dominion in a chain of offices which aimed at the placement of workers in the most suitable work for which they were fitted.

GAVE CABINET VOICE

"The first Cabinet minister to be drawn from Labor ranks had been appointed by the Conservatives, who also had been the first to give consideration to the old-age pension plan, continued the speaker.

"The Conservative party, said Mr. Plunkett, had produced the eight-hour day as effective legislation for Canada, and the six-day working week. On the unemployment issue, he recalled that in 1920 and 1921 the Dominion Government gave $1,800,000 to help alleviate the distress caused by the crisis at that time.

All through the years the Conservatives had dealt with labor in a fair and honorable manner, and it had remained for a Liberal Prime Minister to be the first chief executive of any government in the world to say that he was not concerned with unemployment, said Mr. Plunkett.

While members of the Opposition, Conservatives in the last Parliament had been rendered helpless to secure action on the things they wished to bring forward. All money matters were brought in and controlled by the Government, and all an Opposition member could do was to move a resolution, or to criticize the Government action, or lack of it, he said.

TOOK UNEARNED CREDIT

"Turning to the Soldiers' Relief Bill, which had arisen and been passed by the House in a nonpartisan way, Mr. Plunkett scored the former Prime Minister for the full credit for that legislation when it had been agreed by all in the House that politics were not to be allowed to enter into the question. A special pamphlet had been issued by the Liberals and half-page letters letting taking the credit for soldiers' pensions readers had appeared in an Owen Sound paper, said the candidate. The fact were, he said that seven out of twelve returned soldier members who sat on the Pension committee had been Conservatives.

ANSWERS RUMOR

"Turning to his own campaign affairs, Mr. Plunkett gave the lie to a rumor, he said, was being circulated to the effect that he was responsible for the Male Minimum Wage Act in British Columbia, which set a forty cents an hour rate for certain classes of labor. The truth was, he said, that that was a Provincial measure, first introduced by Major Burde, Member for Lillooet, to amplifying the Minimum Wage Act in British Columbia, which set a forty cents an hour rate for certain classes of labor. The truth was, he said, that that was a Provincial measure, first introduced by Major Burde, Member for Lillooet, amended form on the motion of the late William Sloan, and reintroduced as a new bill by C. F. Davie, member for Cowichan-Newcastle in the Provincial House.

"As a man who has been friendly to labor I do not propose to allow this rumor to go uncorrected," said Mr. Plunkett. "I am a working man, and I think I have the trust and confidence of the working people of this city," said Mr. Plunkett, to applause.

CANDIDATE IS CHEERED

"Under the leadership of R. B. Bennett, I feel honored to contest this constituency, and to ask for a renewal of your confidence. Mr Bennett's policies will make for substantial benefit to Canada, and I know he will carry out those policies, even as he has promised," concluded the speaker. Hearty cheers were given for Mr. Plunkett at the close of the meeting.

F. C. Elliott, past president of the Victoria Conservative Association, spoke briefly. Mr. Elliott told of his talk with the Conservative party leader, while Mr. Bennett was in Victoria recently, and of his appreciation of Mr. Plunkett's service in the Federal Parliament had been highly commended.

Mr Elliott said Canada was deeply in need of tariff revision, but not of the kind proposed in the Opposition Budget. The tariff revision he, personally, would like to see, would be the raising of the tariff against the export of raw materials to the United States, to be manufactured abroad and shipped back to Canada, so as to compete in competition with home-manufactured articles.

The duty against such articles should be at least as high as that charged by the country from which it came, and should in any event be such as to assure a return to the extraterritorial manipulation of the Canadian tariff level by a foreign country.

OFFERING PROMISES

In telling the electors what he would do if returned to power Mr King was in effect offering a bribe to the people of the country, he contended. Mr King and his Government had been in power for nearly ten years, and were still reiterating what they "would do," and not what they "had done." In 1921, Mr. Elliott appealed for a big majority for Mr. Plunkett, whose record in the Federal House had been a good one, and whose future by Victoria would be in the best interests of the district.

STRUCK OUT FIVE

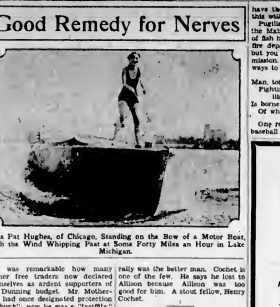
Five promises had been practically ruled out of the Confederation by the "Five-cent speech" of the former Prime Minister, said Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., in speaking in support of Mr. Plunkett. Mr Hayward read from Hansard a verbatim copy of the passage in the House, showing that the Prime Minister had not only made the remark that he would withdraw help from any Provincial Government that was a Conservative administration, but had repeated the statement after it had been challenged generally by cries of "Shame."

The King administration appealed for another three years mandate, The Dunning budget, the record of the King Government and the determination of who was to represent Canada at the Imperial Economic Conference. On all these grounds Mr. King had little to support his plea, said Mr Hayward.

"How long has Mr. Mackenzie King been waving the flag of the Empire?" he asked. "About three months!"

"It is the Conservative party that is concerning Canada for the Empire, and it always will," said Mr. Hayward, to roaring applause.

Good Remedy for Nerves



Miss Pat Hughes, of Chicago, Standing on the Bow of a Motor Boat, With the Wind Whipping Past at Forty Miles an Hour in Lake Michigan.

It was remarkable how many former free traders now declared themselves as loyal supporters of the Dunning budget. Mr Motherwell had once designated protection as "bunk"; now he was a "tariffite." Hon. Charles Stewart, Mr. Crerar, Mr. Euler, Mr. Dunning and Mr. Mackenzie King himself had each forsaken an allegiance they had followed for a lifetime to say now that they supported a tariff wall, he remarked.

EXTRAORDINARY BUDGET

A year ago, continued Mr. Hayward, Mr. Dunning had said that the delegation of only a break for a brick in the tariff wall would be the ruination of Canada. Now his budget proposed, through the system of countervailing duties, just that a course. It was an extraordinary budget for a Liberal Government to mother.

Mr. Hayward rocked his audience with a recital of some of the effects of the preferential treatment for British imports into Canada, with the values for the former traffic in these goods. In the preference list were quoted eggs in the shell, yeast cakes in two forms, barley and macaroni, all of which together only amounted to a value of $479 in the recorded figures of last year. he said.

Also in the preference list were cucumbers, lettuce, parsley, spinach, onions, beans in the can, preserved vegetables, soups, cherries, strawberries and peaches, and much more besides in commodities that never entered the country from the United Kingdom. It was easy to put such goods in the preference list, said Mr. Hayward, for the act would not have the slightest effect on either the revenue of Canada, or the benefits conferred on the favored nations.

"Have you ever heard of a new broom sweeping clean?" concluded Mr. Hayward. "Well, I am going to wager that a new broom is going to be attached by the people of Canada to go to the London conference. That new broom will be the Hon. R. B. Bennett, and he will go with the confidence of Canadians behind him."

THE LISTENING POST

By WALTER THUMBULL

(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

A baseball team doesn't have to have the best shortstop or outfielder to be a contender, but it doesn't even have to have the better pitcher. Knots can nullify the best of twirling.

Golf seems to be a loose ball in football, each team has eleven chances. Any one of twenty-two men can put that ball. The outfit with the better ball-back quarterback and tackle may lose. These are team games.

But when Bobbie Jones tees up for an open tournament, it is strictly a one-man affair. To win, he must be better than all the rest. His only opponent is himself. He must lead him to victory.

It is the same in tennis, boxing and all other games, except here there is only one opponent. In an open golf tournament, there is the field to beat, and there is up the track.

It is be the best medal play golfer in the world is to carry nerve and skill to his fullest potential. It means not always to keep out of trouble; not to never miss a short putt, but to roll the long ones down when the situation demands it. Because he does his stuff in the pinch, Bobby Jones is a champion. He is one of the most popular of champions, because he is also a sportsman.

Rowing is one of the greatest of team sports. There can be no great star in a crew; no Ruth, Tilden, Dempsey, or Jones. If one oarman were a lot better and stronger than the others, he would destroy the rhythm of the stroke. The coxswain would have to work hard to keep the shell straight. The motto of a crew must be "one for all and all for one." A man is valuable only as he fits into his part of the general scheme. It is the crew which wins, never the individual oarsman.

In the United States Open Golf Championship, Jones will have more than MacSmith, Diegel, Barnes and Hagen finish to beat. Hagen, Farrell, Sarazen and a half of others will be out after the professional's biggest prize. Not that the open pays more money to a professional winner than any other tournament. There are several which offers richer purses. But the winner of the open can make more out of it eventually.

There is conversation to the effect that Gene Tunney will take up boxing. That is just a lot of careless chatter. Only one thing will bill boxing and that is when the fans get fed up and commence to stay away in large quantities. But fans have a lot of stamina.

All of us are likely to think a champion better than he is, and when somebody comes along and proves the champ is human, we rather resent it. We immediately start to slind the fallen hero. While he still is balanced on his collar button, we speak of his carelessness, poor condition, poor foot, arm or elbow. There are few of us who will step up and say that the comminder won, because he just metaphorically was the better man. Cochet is one of the few. He says he lost to Allison because Allison was too good for him. A stout fellow, Henry Cochet.

I told you some time ago that it seemed doubtful whether Schmeling would meet Sharkey as had been in September. There were too many persons to satisfy.

Schmeling and Jacobs made a fine contest, but there seemed to be suspicious persons who will wonder whether they had the slightest idea of giving Sharkey another chance this year. Anyhow condition was piled upon condition until an agreement became impossible.

When Sharkey agreed to wage a return bout practically for nothing, it looked as if he had the German boy in a pretty tight fix, but it doesn't take much of a boxing fan to a boxer to dive through, if he figures it to his advantage.

Jacobs says that Sulow now will get nothing. If that is so, it is Sulow's fault. Schmeling will get nothing until late October without being sure he will be waiting until next June before boxing Sharkey again. He wasn't going any too well up to the time of the foul, and a lot of things can happen in a year.

But it would have been refreshing to see a boxer who cared more about being a fine sportsman than he cared about the money. Giving a chance and one who was willing to give the part of a real champion and fight anybody, any time, anywhere.

The present crop of pugilists are not champions; they are merchants.

There's a good reason for a dub," they say. "It has so many short holes." And what could be more ridiculous?

The short hole is for the expert. On a long hole the dub knows what club to use, so he takes a mashie and prayes. He does hope he can't play a half shot. And a short hole is a matter of direction. A ball hit by a dub is likely to go in any of the directions shown on a compass card.

On the long hole the dub takes an earnest wallop at the ball and hopes it will go a good place to land. Then he reaches for his niblick. With some luck he can later play the topped approach. There is remaining the sliced putt and a couple of jabs to the cup. All is well.

It seems to me that life's a lot
Like any course you name,
Where some can score and some cannot Cannot.

But all can play the game.

Alex Morrison says that in the pre-championship tournament, only the heavyweights of golf will be present. He has played Interlachen, and declares that it is no lightweight course.

"That is a course," says Morrison, "where a man must hit the ball far and hit it straight, and keep on hitting it that way for eighteen holes. A bad shot is punished by a long distance. It is easily possible, by making one mistake, to take a seven or eight on a hole. Any man who does not get the rhythm of that course will fare badly there."

From all accounts, Interlachen is a course better fitted to such players as Jones, Hagen and Diegel than to Horton Smith. The fairways are curving, and, while there are few water carries, there is water in the woods all about. Many a ball will jump into the woods and many great shots will probably will fall like jumping into the lake. Interlachen is a sort of a game course. It is not likely that many birdies will be shot there.

A certain boxer had his nose
And eyebrows cut of place.
In blocking an opponent's blows
He always used his face.

The New York Boxing Commission has drawn its best for business. Ever since it issued a decree that no finish would be allowed, but that a boxer might choose his own defensive armor, there has been a boom in ancient relics of mail, galvanised iron garbage cans and many other strange things.

We may expect to see a Scotch fighter enter the ring in sporran kilts. One inventor has designed a bulb skirt made of strings of stove lids. A boxer started to dicker for the skin of the largest gorilla broken in the Bronx Zoo, but that was considered a violation of the spirit of the rule, as while he would be protected above it, and, when he saw a punch coming, might pull in his neck.

Boxers from Kentucky probably will discover wearing Bourbon barrels draped from the shoulders. Bourbon is now manufactured in New Jersey and in cellars in Brooklyn and the Bronx, but they still

DIATOMITE IN CANADA

Canada has a large number of deposits of diatomite in British Columbia, Ontario and in the Maritime Provinces, from which diatomite suitable for almost every known use can be obtained. Report No. 681 of the Mines Branch of the Dominion Department of Mines, Ottawa, records the results of an investigation into the sources and uses of diatomite in Canada. Copies of this bulletin may be had on request to the Department of Mines at Ottawa.

The physical characteristics of Canada—its innumerable lakes, extensive forests, and great open prairies—combine with the natural geographical situation to constitute a distinct faunal region within which is to be found almost every species of game native to the North American continent.

KAMCHATKA TO BE EXPLOITED

Soviet Authorities Taking Active Steps to People Unsettled District With Workers

HAVE CHARTERED NUMBER OF SHIPS

According to an interview recently given to a Seattle journal by Lessing Plaun, Danish consul, who recently returned from the Orient, plans have been concluded for moving 30,000 Russians from the White Sea region to Kamchatka, in order to populate that northeastern section of Siberia and to carry on fishing, lumbering and oil drilling activities.

The Russian Government, Mr. Plaun stated, had recently purchased more than twenty ships for operation between Kamchatka and Vladivostok. They have also chartered sixty British, Norwegian and Chinese vessels to carry lumber to Japan and China, threatening the trade of Canadian and American exporters. To carry on fishing operations off Kamchatka, the Soviet representatives have also chartered forty-eight Japanese vessels.

Nine Great Liners Leave New York in One Day, Carrying 12,000 Passengers

NEW YORK, July 16—European travel for the season reached its peak rate of this port today, when 12,000 travelers left for the other side on nine liners.

The Cunarder Berengaria, the White Star liner Majestic, the Leviathan, of the United States lines, and the Columbia and Bremen, North German Lloyd, each carried a list of 2,000. Other ships sailing were the President Roosevelt, of the United States lines; the Hamburg, Hamburg-American Line; the Drottningholm, Swedish-American Line, and the Bergensfjord, Norwegian-America Line.

The keen competition among steamship companies has resulted in the speeding up of the schedules, permitting crews to get in an extra sailing before Summer travel concludes.

TRADE GROWS AT PORT OF LOS ANGELES

Month of June Current Year Exceeded Trade in Same Period of 1929 by $11,000,000

VALUE OF TRAFFIC EXCEEDS BILLION

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—In spite of the depression in other parts of the coldrums, the port of Los Angeles largely increased its tonnage during the past year. Regaining by $104,000,000 even the billion-dollar stride which Los Angeles struck early last year, the port closed the fiscal year at the end of June with the total valuation of its commerce set at $1,154,882,806 on a freight tonnage of 26,462,276. The trade those figures represent was carried in 8,629 vessels, according to the Marine Exchange tabulations.

This year's commerce exceeded that of the preceding fiscal period by $105,784,900 and eclipsed the tonnage total of that period by more than 1,000,000 tons.

All branches of trade except foreign imports registered gains over the preceding year. Exports aggregated 7,424,000 tons valued at $158,618,252, an increase of nearly $20,000,000 over 1928-29. Imports were 719,396 tons valued at $60,634,782, giving the port a favorable trade balance of close to $100,000,000.

8,625 VESSELS LISTED

Both tonnage and valuation of commerce between Los Angeles and Hawaii increased. Receipts from Hawaii were 94,133 tons valued at $2,484,641, while shipments to the islands were 55,941 tons valued at $9,715,147.

Intercoastal shipments amounted to 3,789,258 tons valued at $163,882,980 and intercoastal receipts were 1,367,251 with a valuation of $338,367,570.

Coastwise shipments were reported as 2,288,800 tons valued at $117,387,540 and coastwise receipts, 4,210,227 tons valued at $214,770,964. Of the 8,625 vessels listed as arrivals, 3,228 were in foreign trade, 1,661 plied intercoastal, 4,654 were in coastwise service and 82 noncontiguous coastwise. Net tonnage of the commercial craft aggregated 23,307,622 tons.

HEAVY OIL EXPORTS

Petroleum products exported to all corners of the earth and to domestic ports reached a total of 136,307,432 barrels in the fiscal year. Lumber receipts amounted to 1,038,152,042 board feet carried by 1,969 steamers.

June contributed to the year's business 2,482,884 tons valued at $97,607,175, according to the Marine Exchange report. The sum exceeded that of June last year by $11,000,000 and the preceding month is eclipsed by $10,000,000 in valuation.

TRAVELER FROM SPAIN ON VISIT

People of His Country Intensely Loyal and Will Not Consider Republic

Boarding the new German steamer Vancouver, of the Hamburg-American Line, at Belleville street, Manuel Fernandez de Bobadilla, a wine merchant of Jerez, Spain, left the ship at Vancouver, and has been visiting in Victoria for several days past.

Senor Bobadilla is making the sojourn of Canada for the first time, and will tour across the Dominion, returning home by way of New York, after he has visited Montreal and Toronto.

Speaking of Spain, he stated that it was one of the richest countries in the world after the Great War, but the cost of the trouble in Morocco drained the country of money, and things were in a bad way when Premier de Rivera became dictator. While the Communists and Socialists were very strong in Spain, Senor Bobadilla was of the opinion that the country would never become a republic, as the people are intensely loyal, and consider the king one of themselves.

United States of America, Juan de Fuca Strait, Swiftsure Bank—New lightship to be placed, characteristic of light to be changed, and characteristic of fog signal to be changed. A new vessel to be placed on this station. Will have two masts with circular grating at each masthead. Hull will be yellow with Swiftsure in black on sides. The vessel will show a flashing white light every fifteen seconds, flash five seconds, eclipse ten seconds, of 15,000 candle power, sixty-five feet above water on the foremast. The fog signal will be a diaphone which will sound a group of two blasts every thirty seconds. If the diaphone is disabled, a handbell will sound a group of two strokes every thirty seconds. A radiobeacon will transmit groups of two dashes, the same as the present lightship.

A. JOHNSTON,
Deputy Minister.

Britain Compares Well With World in Building Ships

(Canadian Press Cable)

LONDON, July 16—Decline of Great Britain's shipbuilding industry, in ratio to that of the rest of the world, is revealed strikingly in returns for the second quarter of this year, made public by Lloyd's underwriters.

Out of 2,027,000 tons under construction by the world during the three months, 1,292,000 tons, or 48 per cent of the whole, was being built in Great Britain and Ireland. This compares with a percentage of 57.3 built by Britain and Ireland in the twelve months immediately preceding the war.

OIL PRESSURE FELL RAPIDLY ON BIG PLANE

Bromley Returns to Hangar After Taking Off From Tacoma Field on Speed Test

CRUISED AT RATE OF 94.26 MILES

TACOMA FIELD, TACOMA, Wash., July 16.—Carrying a load of 500 gallons of gasoline and three men, Harold Bromley's giant monoplane took off from Tacoma Field at 8 o'clock this morning on a projected speed test, but less than an hour later was back in the hangar, having been forced to return sooner than expected because of insufficient oil pressure.

The ship was burned back at Centralia when the oil pressure fell rapidly. She cruised at 94.26 miles an hour over the seventy-four-mile measured course. Allowing for the load of 312 gallons of gasoline and three aviators, this is practically the same as the previous test of 94.6.

L. E. Wilkeson, field superintendent, who accompanied Bromley, said. Both tests were made at 1,700 revolutions per minute.

MARINE and TRANSPORTATION

Silent Zone Guarded With Standard Safety Services After Beginning of August

There will be no more silent zone between William Head and Sequimalt Harbor during the fog season that date, according to officials of the Federal Department of Marine and Fisheries, or as near to it as they can now state with any degree of assurance, a fog alarm will be in place near where the Empress of Canada grounded last Fall, sending its warnings across the waters of Juan de Fuca Strait.

Preparations to this end have been going on for the past two weeks at the outside point of Albert Head.

FOUNDATIONS IN PLACE

The foundations for the various structures are in place with all the concrete work completed, and the framing of the various buildings is now going forward. The complete layout comprises a lighthouse tower, fog alarm building, boathouse, concrete water cistern and a dwelling house. Messrs. Lindner Brothers are doing the work under contract.

The light tower will stand fifty-six feet above the ground, it will be of steel, and is now being fabricated at Vancouver. The fog alarm machinery is also being assembled so that everything will be ready to proceed without loss of time once the buildings are available.

YARROWS MAKING TANKS

In connection with the fog alarm equipment, Messrs. Yarrows, of Esquimalt, are making two air tanks, each being ten feet in length and five feet in diameter. The fog alarm will be operated by a crude oil engine, and the electric light plant by a gasoline engine, electric light being used in the beacon as well as in the buildings in the vicinity of the tower. The light will be stronger than the present one on Race Rocks, of the same class as the light at Active Pass.

SHIP LEAKING; CREW RESCUED

Steamers Colbourne Takes Mariners From Portuguese Fishing Vessel Off Newfoundland

HALIFAX N.S., July 16.—The trawler Toruna, reported from Sihaco, Portugal, to have been lost off the banks of Newfoundland, is believed to be the same vessel from which the crew was reported rescued in a message reaching C. H. Harvey, agent for Nova Scotia of the Marine and Fisheries Department, on July 12.

Captain Hodley, of the steamer Colbourne, reported having taken off the crew of thirty-one from the Portuguese three-masted fishing schooner Toruna. The vessel, leaking badly, was set on fire.
